Eight Western Bears.
Don't Be a U. S. Bear.
All Set, Very Soon.
The Skuptshina, and Here.

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

EIGHT young California oarsmen, the "Golden Bear Eight," from the Golden Gate, beat the best crew that Columbia ever turned out and smashed a 27-year record.

A climate in which you grow for twelve months, instead of fighting colds and standing still for six months out of twelve, has advantages. Helen Wills proves it.

BUSINESS news more cheerful yesterday. The oil stock buyer rejoiced to read that crude oil production had fallen off 5,350 barrels a day in the past week, and oil stored east of the Rocky Mountains shows a decrease of 656,000 barrels for May.

LOADING of revenue-producing cars, a good business indication, increased 61,746 for the week ending June 9.

Some daring little lambs have been trimmed to look like a French poodle, and others to look more like a hairless Mexican dog.

But beware how you sell this country short, for the long run.

And, although it may be a little late, don't gamble.

SOON the two candidates will be named, Hoover and Smith, the two platforms printed, and the show will start. Houston reports lack of prohibition energy. Nobody there, it seems, to give prohibition a kind hand.

Senator Reed of Missouri says he will stop Governor Smith. But prohibition does not interest him. There will be plenty of prohibition talk before next November, however.

IN the Belgrade Skuptshina, their name for Congress, a radical deputy rose and killed Paul Raditch, nephew of the peasant leader. Savage, backward sort of place, we say.

IN New York's Central Park yesterday a ruffian, type of modern criminal, cruelly slashed the face of a young woman walking with friends. In Ohio George Remus, who shot his wife in cold blood, as she begged for mercy was set free. A jury said he was insane—that saved his neck. The high court says he is not insane—that gives him freedom, and more opportunity. In Houston, as the Democrats gather, a Negro is taken from a hospital bed, by men not masked, and hanged.

Let us not criticise others.

MAJOR MADDALENA, one of Italy's magnificent fliers, located Nobile, adrift on an ice floe in the Arctic and dropped a supply of food. No landing was possible, and the ice was too rough to take off.

Would it be possible to drop a miniature gas bag, weighted down, that could lift one or more of the stranded men perpendicularly, to within reach of a slowly moving plane? What plan would you suggest?

AMELIA EARHART has received her first proposal of marriage since her ocean flight. She will get more. She tells London to praise Pilot Stultz, who ran the machine and really made the trip, while she was "excess baggage." But no one pays attention to that. Romance is the thing, and Miss Earhart supplies it.

IN New York's brutal dancing contest —the dance to go on until all but one couple drop—the female dancers, nervously exhausted, slap their partners' faces then the men slap the women's faces vigorously. The Tahoos, called "fans," looking on, shriek with delight as the half crazed dancers strike each other.

Such is our poor imitation of the Roman arena.

"CITIES of corpses" will be one feature of the next big war, according to German experts. It will be a stroyed, without the firing of a shot. "gas war" and nations may be decimated troops would be wiped out instantly, not a man escaping, and armies of men will never again take the field.

SIR FRANK FOX says in his book, "The Mastery of the Pacific," "London might be destroyed as a habitable city within an hour of the declaration of war, by a great bombing air fleet."

A NATION contemplating war should first build underground habitations for its population, store food there, build ammunition factories underground. And, if possible, "science should seek out some form of gaseous vegetation capable of supporting life, which could be cultivated underground."

GERMANY says this country leads all nations in making destructive gases and explosives. Not true probably, but welcome news if it be true.

We shall attack no one, and give no one, unless attacked. But we should be so well prepared in the air, and in chemical laboratories, as to make any attack on us equivalent to national suicide for the nation attacking.

As it is, unfortunately, we are completely unprepared, in the air; at the mercy of any air invasion.

FLIERS FLEDGED

Cadiz, Spain, June 21—Miss Spanish Aviator Wagen, who is contemplating a flight around the world, announced today that the plane he will use on the flight will be completed in a few days. He will test the plane in July and start his flight the beginning of August. He hopes to complete the circuit in six months.

FRANCE SENDING BOATS

Hope To Find Norwegian and His French Companion in North

The French seaplane which hopped off at Tromsoe, Norway, on Monday, with Rene Guilbaud and Roald Amundsen, still was missing today.

Gen. Umberto Nobile and five companions have been located on an ice floe off the coast of Northeast Land, but the fate of the other 10 members of the Nobile polar expedition is not known.

France will send two warships to Spitsbergen to search for Guilbaud and Amundsen.

Major Maddelena, Italian aviator, was to hop off at Nyalesund, Spitsbergen, today to try to land near the Nobile party and to search for the missing 10 members of the Nobile expedition and for Amundsen and Guilbaud.

London, June 21—Gen. Umberto Nobile and five members of the crew of the lost dirigible Italia having been located and provided with supplies, leaders of the relief expeditions today turned temporarily to two other pressing problems.

The whereabouts of 10 other members of the Italia's crew still is unknown. Capt. Roald Amundsen, the famous Arctic explorer, who with Maj. Rene Guilbaud, set out from Tromsoe, Norway, to search for Nobile in a French plane almost three days ago, has not been heard from.

Much anxiety is felt for Amundsen's safety in Scandinavian aviation circles. Although Amundsen is known to be capable of combatting any sort of adversity in the Arctic regions, it was pointed out that this is the worst month of the year for flying in the north lands.

New Rescue Expedition

A new rescue expedition of three men, a Swedish trapper, an Alpinist and a Lapplander, is preparing to leave for King's Bay to search for Nobile's lost comrades soon, according to a Central

SHIP HAS TROUBLE WITH STOWAWAYS

Jervis Bay, Enroute to Colombo, Appeals for Immediate Assistance

London, June 21—After its wireless had been silent for several hours, leading to fears that the crew had mutinied and joined forces with the desperate stowaways found abroad, the Australian Commonwealth Liner Jervis Bay sent out another radio call for immediate assistance, said a dispatch from Colombo this afternoon.

The Jervis Bay, which is enroute from Brisbane to London with 600 passengers on board, had originally asked for aid from a warship, reporting that the crew were having trouble with "eight desperate stowaways."

That members of the crew may have refused to act against the stowaways was intimated by a Central News dispatch from Colombo saying that the stowaways were confined beneath battened down hatches while a volunteer guard kept watch night and day. When this dispatch was filed the liner was believed to be about 1,500 miles from Colombo.

The liner has 600 persons aboard.

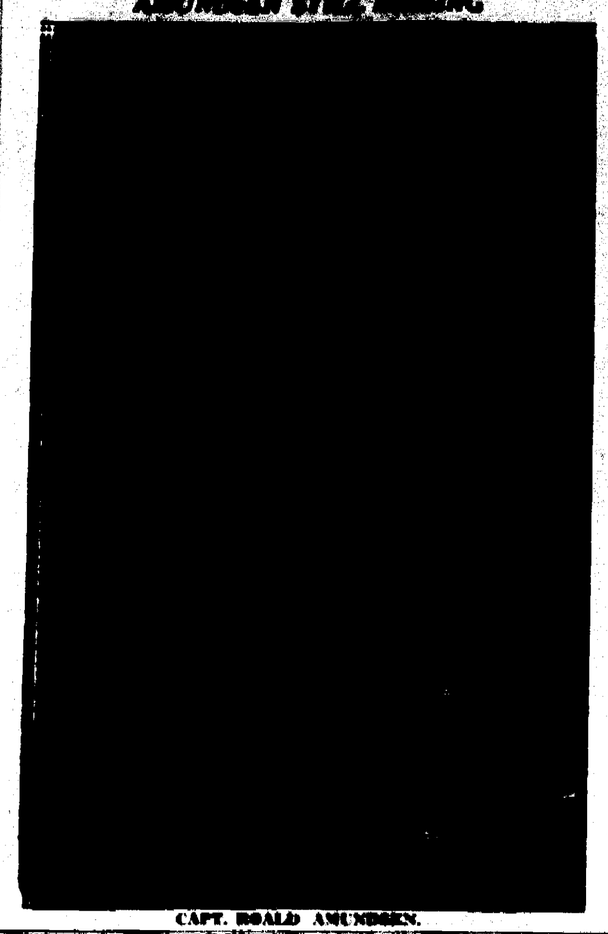
AMUNDSEN STILL MISSING



CAPT. ROALD AMUNDSEN.

Excavation of North Side of W. Center-st Started; Finish Sewer Construction

New Street Car Tracks Soon to Be in Use and South Side of Thoroughfare Thrown Open to Use; Work Expected to Go Forward Rapidly

Construction of the sanitary and storm water sewers which are to be a part of the W. Center-st improvement project, has been completed and work has now been started by P. Drake & Sons, contractors, on the excavation of the north side of the street between Leader-st and the Pennsylvania tracks preparatory to the pouring of concrete for the pavement base.

Rain has held up the improvement to some extent but with the pouring of the concrete for the new street car tracks completed and the curb placed from Leader-st to the Pennsylvania tracks, it is expected the work will progress rapidly from now on, subject of course to weather conditions.

Brick have been laid in between the street car tracks for a short distance between Leader-st and the railroad, a part of which has been covered with tar. Brick for the space between the tracks which are being provided by the C. D. & M. Electric Co., have been laid from the Pennsylvania tracks to Oak-st.

Workmen today were building catchbasins on the south side of the street and putting in water and gas connections, in preparation for the paving of that side of the street. With the placing of the new tracks, the auxiliary track which now rests on the south side of the street, will be removed and that side of the street opened to traffic while the north of the street is being paved. October 1 has been fixed as the date for the completion of the street but with the delays from the unusual amount of rain, it is doubtful if the street will be completed by that time.

LAWRENCE COMPANY TO TAKE "Y" ROOM

Restaurant Will Be Moved to Second Floor of Association Building

Discontinuance of the Y. M. C. A. restaurant in its present location and the occupancy of the room by the Lawrence Auto Supply Co. was announced today following the signing of a five-year lease for the room by Marion Lawrence.

The lease is to go into effect Aug. 1, according to Mr. Lawrence. It is expected, however, that the room will be vacated by the middle of July. The transfer of the auto supply stock to the new room is to begin about that time.

Mrs. F. E. Thomas, proprietor of the restaurant, said today that the dining room would be reopened on the second floor of the Y. M. C. A. building and will be located immediately over the present room. Mrs. Thomas, however, does not expect to reopen the restaurant before fall.

With the reopening five rooms on the second floor of the Y. M. C. A. building will be devoted to restaurant purposes. At least three of these rooms can be adapted to private dining rooms. This will enable the restaurant to cater more particularly to club dinners and parties, Mrs. Thomas said.

The restaurant has been in its present location three and one-half years.

BOARD APPROPRIATES MONEY FOR AVIATION

New York, June 21—The board of trustees of the Daniel Guggenheim Fund for the promotion of aeronautics has authorized appropriations totalling $930,000 to the University of Washington, the Harvard University Graduate School of Business Administration and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology to further the study of aviation, it was announced today by Henry P. Guggenheim, president of the fund.

The board of trustees of the fund announced an appropriation of $350,000 to the University of Washington for the purpose of establishing an aeronautical engineering school. To supplement buildings already in use at the university, it is planned at this university to establish a new aeronautical engineering school and in recognition of the outstanding importance of an engineering education in the aeronautical

DIPLOMA MILL FOUND IN NEW YORK COLLEGE

Students Steal Way into Registrar's Office and Falsify Records

New York, June 21—Detectives today were closing in on the head of a diploma mill at the College of the City of New York.

Chancellor Frederick B. Robinson disclosed the insidious degree factory's presence to the district attorney after a quiet campus investigation.

Assistant District Attorney James T. Neary said the diploma mill chieftain is a graduate of the college and is familiar with procedure in the registrar's office.

His identity was learned from a man listed falsely in the college files. The district attorney's office indicated there was sufficient evidence to warrant indictment.

Operatives of the mill stole their way into the registrar's headquarters and falsified records. Names of youths who never matriculated were inserted in the enrollment list. Undergraduates were credited with passing subjects they had flunked.

Most of the fraudulent records apparently were employed to get men into law schools.

SAYS DEATH OF LIVESTOCK DUE TO SALT POISON

Widow of Sleeping Sickness Victim Seriously Ill with Influenza

RUMORS ARE DENIED

Find 51 Head of Cattle Dead in Woods on Baer Farm

While Mrs. Helen Gertrude Baer, widow of Francis Raymond Baer, sleeping sickness victim, lay seriously ill of influenza at the Baer home seven miles north of here yesterday an investigation into the deaths of 51 head of stock conducted by Dr. J .T. Gruber, city milk inspector, was completed today.

Theory that the stock might have died of milk sickness was discontinued when it was discovered that the animals' death was due to poisoning from an excessive amount of [illegible] food. The stock were found in a woods adjoining the farm. They are believed to have eaten excessively of a scarlet stock food receiving an overdose of salt.

The loss amounted to 38 sheep, six cows and seven swine.

Finding of the dead stock was responsible for circulation of reports that their death might have been connected with that of Francis Raymond Baer, who died last Sunday of sleeping sickness superinduced by an attack of influenza.

Dr. Gruber stated that milk from the cows did not cause the death of Mr. Baer nor the serious illness of his wife.

The condition of Mrs. Baer, who has been seriously ill since the death of her husband, was reported to be improved today.

PROVIDE PROTECTION FOR INVESTIGATORS

Extra Guards Surround Prosecutors and Jury in Election Fraud Trial

Chicago, June 21—Extra guards were provided today for prosecutors, witnesses and members of the special grand jury investigating crime and election frauds, following an attack last night on Attorney Samuel Epstein, connected with the prosecution.

Epstein was set upon and slugged by gangsters in the very shadow of the criminal court building where the special grand jury is in session.

The sluggers attempted to seize important memoranda dealing, it is said, with evidence in connection with the pre-election murder of "Diamond Joe" Esposito, a Unseen political worker. The attorney's papers also included a list of men who are to be indicted, it was said.

Frank J. Loesch, in charge of the jury as special prosecutor and president of the Chicago Crime Commission, was enraged over the attack on his aide.

FIRST RUMBLE OF DRY FIGHT HEARD TODAY

Norman Mack Fires Opening Gun in Talk Praising Governor Smith

OWN VIEWS, EXPLANATION

Radical Drys Take Up Statement of New York Committeeman

BY GEORGE R. HOLMES
Star Staff Correspondent

Houston, Tex., June 21—The first rumble of the prohibition thunder that may rock the Democratic national convention reverberated about Houston today. It offered a prelude, perhaps, of what is to come—and incidentally what may change this convention from a Smith ratification meeting into a noisy, controversial and bitter companion-piece to Madison Square Garden.

Gov. Al Smith's managers took prompt measures to squelch it. But they were not entirely successful, nor did they succeed before the curtain was lifted a bit to afford an insight into the feeling of the New York delegation.

Mack Starts It Off

Norman E. Mack, veteran national committeeman from New York, and one of Governor Smith's closest personal friends, fired the opening gun in a statement in which he gave unstinted praise to Governor Smith, and included these observations:

"Governor Smith has, and always will, stand for liberty and state's rights. He is opposed to prohibition. He is for temperance.

"The trouble with the American people is that they do not appreciate what prohibition has meant and does mean today. If they only realized what a hardship it is to the business of this country they would not stand for it.

For State Rights

"Governor Smith believes that if any state desires a certain alcoholic content of beverage, that state has the right to determine the content. If the state desires to be dry, then it is the right of that state to be dry.'

Mack said "it is absolutely criminal" for American business to allow foreign countries to take so much money out of this country for liquor. And he referred to "people in the states of Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and New York spending the greater portion of their time and money imbibing the liquors so easily obtained in Canada."

Mack's bombshell coming from the source it did and on the eve of the convention was immediately taken up by grim-faced drys who are here to do battle with the Smith forces. It created a first-class sensation among the arriving delegates.

Frantic friends of the governor started looking immediately for George H. Van Namee, the Smith pre-convention

Alleged Gang Members Get 20 Years in Ohio State Penitentiary

Celina, June 21—Convicted of complicity in the robbery of the Farmers Bank at Chickasaw, 10 miles from here, two other alleged members of the gang of bank robbers who have been terrorizing the bankers of the middlewest for the past three years today were under sentence of 20 years in the Ohio State Penitentiary at Columbus.

Another member of the gang, Howard Smith, a brother of one of the men under sentence today, was received into the state penal institution Tuesday to serve a term of from 15 to 25 years for complicity in the Ansonia Bank "job." Howard, who is only 21 years old, was sentenced by the Darke County Courts.

Harry Smith, 34, of St. Marys, O., and Edward Axe, 38, are the two other members of the alleged gang under sentence. They were indicted by the Mercer County Grand Jury here yesterday morning, arraigned and sentenced yesterday afternoon after they had pleaded guilty.

Six other members of the same gang, four men and two women, are in jails in Ohio and Indiana following a round-up by state authorities and detectives of bankers association groups.

Storm Hits Hedding River and Sunday Creek Valleys; Does Damage

Nelsonville, June 21 — One man is believed drowned and much damage is reported today following the cloudburst which struck the Hocking River and Sunday Creek Valleys late yesterday.

Robert S. Lunsford, 38, Glouster, has not been seen since he left a store near Glouster last night. He started up a lane which was covered with water from a flooded stream. The owner of the store told authorities that he heard a shout soon after Lunsford left but would find no trace of the man.

Food Dropped to Italian Explorer and Some of Men by Parachutes

News dispatch from Stockholm, Sweden.

The expedition is promoted by the Swedish government and financed by private individuals. The three men are taking with them eight reindeer sleighs which they will use in scouring the Arctic wastes.

Major Maddalena was aided by radio messages from Nobile in locating the dirigible's commander. He circled over the marooned men's encampment several times and dropped food and supplies from his plane by using small parachutes.

Crew Separated

Three of the 10 lost members of the Italia's crew, the Swedish Professor Malgren and the Italian Navy commanders, Zappi and Mariano, were with Nobile when the Italia's gondola crashed to the ground on May 25, but they left the others to attempt to reach aid by trekking towards land.

The other seven were in other parts of the dirigible when the crash occurred and are believed to have landed with it some distance away from Nobile's encampment.

COUNSEL PETITIONS

Short Line Railroads Ask Reopening of Van Sweringen Case

Washington, June 21—Counsel for a group of short line railroads today petitioned the Interstate Commerce Commission to reopen the Van Sweringen unification case wherein the Chesapeake & Ohio was authorized to acquire the Pere Marquette, but was denied permission to take over the Erie.

The principal contention was that the commission "erroneously" held that its principal concern respecting short lines was with regard to those connecting lines of the companies over which control is to be extended rather than with regard to short lines connecting with the acquiring lines.

REHEARING HELD IN COMPENSATION CASE

Widow Claims Solution Used in Cleaning Brick Caused Death of Husband

Rehearing of the compensation case of Mrs Hazel Haynes, of LaRue, was held here yesterday before C. J. Wardlow, referee of the Industrial Commission. The original application of Mrs. Haynes for compensation for the death of her husband, Arnold Haynes, 27, whom she claims died as a result of inhaling fumes from a solution used in washing brick buildings, was rejected by the commission about a month ago.

The motion, filed by Attorney Grant Mosser as the representative of Mrs. Haynes, resulted in the rehearing yesterday.

Haynes who died Sept. 23, 1927, was employed by the LaRue Construction Co. to wash the outside walls of an addition to the Claridon Township School. Fumes from the solution of muriatic acid and water are claimed to have caused his death.

Compensation to the widow and the year old child, if allowed by the commission, will amount to $7,500 to be paid at the rate of two thirds of the monthly wage of the husband until the entire amount is consumed.

Mrs. Haynes lives in LaRue.

SEEKS DAMAGES FOR ALLEGED DOG BITES

Suit Filed in Municipal Court by Wilbur C. Kingsley

Whether or not the owner of a dog is responsible for the actions of the dog, even though it is kept on the premises or in the house, will be threshed out in Municipal Court when an action brought by Wilbur C. Kingsley against William R. Yocum, is heard before Municipal Judge William R Martin.

In a petition filed in municipal court yesterday afternoon, Kingsley asks a judgment of $262 from Yocum for injuries alleged to have been received when he was bitten April 19 by a bull dog belonging to the defendant. The plaintiff went to the Yocum home to secure the job of hauling away a quantity of rubbish.

Kingsley says in his petition that while delivering a load of coal at the R. B. Carter home, 360 Girard-av on April 19, he noticed a quantity of rubbish in the back yard of the Yocum home and thinking he might secure the job of hauling it away, went to the back door, and just as he was about to rap, the dog leaped from the door fastening his teeth in his left shoulder tearing his shirt and inflicting a flesh wound. As he turned to leave the yard he said the dog bit him on the hand. As the result of the wounds, he charges, he lost several weeks of work and has a doctor bill of $22.

PROHIBITION FIGHT IS STARTED IN HOUSTON

committee of the national committee. It was long past midnight when they found him. The lateness of the hour and the then impossibility of recalling the statement distressed Van Namee no little. "Did you say that, Norman?" asked Van Namee.

Own Personal Views

"Yes," said the veteran New York leader, somewhat embarrassed. "I said it, but I want it distinctly understood I was expressing my own personal views and that I was not talking for Governor Smith."

"My God," exploded Van Namee, "you are the national committeeman from New York. You are the first Democratic leader down here from New York and people will think you are speaking for the governor."

"I was only speaking for myself," repeated Mack.

The perturbation of Smith managers seemed eminently justified today when the radical drys, already gathering here for the impending battle, immediately took up the Mack statement and made the most of it.

Women Take It Up

"Surely," said Mrs. Jessie W. Nicholson, of Maryland, director of the National Women's Democratic Law Enforcement League, "surely the Democrats will not be so foolish as to nominate Al Smith or any other wet candidate for the presidency.

"Seventy-five thousand women banded into this enforcement league and representing 20 million women voters do not want their children ever to see the inside of a saloon. This is just what would happen should Tammany get control of the treasury and the prohibition bureau.

"If Tammany millions prove too much for us in Houston, there is more than one way to kill a cat, and we are going to make a dead tiger out of Tammany so far as national politics is concerned."

Radical Drys Gather

That is just one example of how the Mack statement was taken up by the radical drys. They are already here in force, and they will be here en masse when the gavel falls on Tuesday. Women predominate but there are many male drys present and coming, and representing more than a score of national organizations. They are militant, aggressive, and determined at all costs to prevent the inclusion in the platform of any plank which by the widest stretch of imagination could be construed as liberal on the prohibition issue.

It is the one situation that is causing the Smith leaders real concern. Of the nomination of Governor Smith they are confident. They expect it certainly within three ballots.

Smith Keeps Plans Hidden

If Governor Smith has authorized anyone to speak for him on the kind of prohibition plank he wants in the platform, or if he has intrusted anyone with a plank drawn by himself the fact has been kept carefully hidden thus far. The impression prevails that the governor favors a simple declaration in favor of the law enforcement, without naming any names, but it goes no further than an impression. That, however, will not satisfy the drys. They want an out-and-out-dry platform so written as to make Governor Smith writhe in trying to stand upon it. They assert that the Republicans pledged themselves at Kansas City to enforce the Eighteenth amendment by name, and they assert the Democrats can do no less.

in Columbus, according to the records of the bureau. Cellars were flooded, auto and street car traffic was halted, lights were out and heavy damage was reported in many sections.

In 1901 records show, 6.31 inches of rain fell in 15 days. In 1902 only 4.96 inches of rain fell but it rained 22 consecutive days.

According to reports from the weather bureau this morning no rivers were reported over the flood stages.

The low pressure areas which have hovered over the western portion of the country are traveling eastward and are causing the many heavy rains which have fallen in Ohio, according to attaches of the bureau.

RGES LIGHTS, HORN, RAKES BE CHECKED

uto Club Secretary Cites Needs of Motorist as Traffic Increases

The importance of checking the con- of the brakes, the lights and the of the car, as traffic grows greater the coming of warmer weather, was urged in a traffic warning issued today by Mrs. D V. Gallagher, secretary of the Marion Auto Club.

Now that the season has arrived when everyone in America who has an automobile is driving it as much as possible, the individual motorist owes it to himself and to others to make certain that his car is in an absolutely safe condition, Mrs. Gallagher pointed out. There are three points that should be checked especially, she said and these three also names as the brakes, the horn and the lights.

These units were declared by Mrs. Gallagher to be the most vital of all from the standpoint of safety and she urged that unless the motorist is satisfied as to their efficiency he should not join the traffic stream.

"It surely is a simple matter to drop into one's service station and have a mechanic check over the condition of brakes, horn, and lights,' the secretary said. 'The job itself takes but a few moments, and even if adjustments are necessary it is not likely that they will consume much time.

"However, the importance of this work should not be measured by the usually small amount of time it takes. Brakes, of course, are the automobile's most essential safety factor. Without efficient brakes safety is impossible of achievement. The motorist should be satisfied with nothing less than 100 per cent efficiency in the operation of his car who is satisfied with less is a menace to every highway user, including himself.

"The horn frequently is overlooked in safety though, and too often its importance has been minimized by ignorant usage. Properly used, a good clear horn is an indispensable adjunct.

"Correctly focused lights, yielding full but not excessive glow, should be found on every car in these months of heavy driving. Since night-time motoring is becoming increasingly popular, properly adjusted lighting equipment is becoming more and more an absolute essential.'

FLY-TOX NECESSARY
WARS ARE LESS FATAL THAN COMMON INSECTS

"Flies have caused more deaths than all wars," says Major Ransom of the Medical Department of the United States Army. "Since the fly came into the world it has been synonymous with epidemics of pestilence and disease." But with Fly-Tox it is a very simple easy matter to rid the house of flies—to keep it fresh and clean, free of insect taint. Fly-Tox is the scientific insecticide developed at Mellon Institute of Industrial Research by Rex Fellowship. Simple instructions for killing ALL household insects on blue labeled bottles. Insist on Fly-Tox.—Adv.

250 Owners OPERATING 5,834 SPEED WAGONS

In Fleets of 10 or More Show how SPEED WAGON Fleets are GROWING

Just a Few Examples—

A big oil executive—said to be one of the best informed highway transportation experts in the country—has put his approval on the purchase of 50 Speed Wagons for his company.

In Florida, a dairy company has purchased 38 Speed Wagons.

Twenty-three Speed Wagons are being used for forest service in Montana.

One of the Nation's biggest packing concerns uses 32 Speed Wagons in their branch plants.

In Los Angeles, a nationally known company now operates 50 Speed Wagons.

An amusement organization in Kansas has purchased eleven Speed Wagons for traveling circuits under all conditions of roads and weather.

A baking company in New York has increased its fleet to 600 Speed Wagons.

In Maine, 30 Speed Wagons were recently purchased by one company.

A southern department store now uses 15 Speed Wagon Tonners, 1 Standard and 2 Master Speed Wagons.

In a single group of 200 Speed Wagon owners, 5,834 Speed Wagons are now operated in fleets of 10 or more!

This is only another indication that the Speed Wagon fleets are growing.

Growing at a pace that keeps production at top speed. Growing in a myriad of individual businesses by the tens, twenties and thirties!

Such growth is not an accident. It has been going on consistently for a long time. It is the result of the keen experience of buyers who know motor truck costs and motor truck values. These buyers recognized Speed Wagons as leaders when Reo had only a few Speed Wagon models to offer.

Today, there are thirteen new Speed Wagon wheelbases—capacities from ½ to 3 tons. Speed Wagon performance and Speed Wagon long life are now available for 95% of all hauling requirements. Now low prices put Speed Wagon values even further in advance of anything else on the market.

Try out a new Speed Wagon—start it, stop on it, stop it, push it. A demonstration is yours for the asking.

The Reason Why We Do Not Hold Sales

If we conducted so-called "sales," with bewildering up-and-down shifting of prices—and "come early" for best choice—and disappointments because of "all sold out"—we could never give you the kind of Service you are entitled to and that we insist on giving.

It is our plan rather, to sell you Quality Goods only—priced as low as possible—from the day we buy the goods, but NEVER to buy goods for a Special Sale. And the indications are most convincing that our customers like our No-Sale Policy—our consistently Low Prices—our Day-In-and-Month-Out plan of Lowest Possible Prices every day in the year.

Kenton Chamber of Commerce Secretary Is Presented at Council Meet

Kenton, June 21—S. R. Nichols, secretary of the Kenton Chamber of Commerce, Tuesday night pledged the co-operation and assistance of the organization to the city council in any undertaking the legislature saw fit. The new secretary was presented by Fred Brindley, organization president.

Orders to proceed in conjunction with the county commissioners and Pleasant Township trustees, with the improvement of the corporation line road extending eastward from N. Main-st, was given Service Director E. F. Gelhaus. The work is to start as soon as weather permits.

The improvement requested several months ago by Warren Doll and others, was finally authorized after an agreement had been reached on paying the costs.

Director Gelhaus asked council to provide some appropriation for the improvement of surface sewers on East Columbus-st in the vicinity of Cherry, High and Wayne streets, this fall and winter. The present sewer, he said, has been impaired by tree roots and as a result surface water cannot be carried away and the streets are flooded, after every rain.

Councilman Joe Tussing presented the request of residents of West Franklin-st for the installation of a fire alarm box at the intersection of Harrison-st. The matter was placed in the hands of the service director.

Doctor Found What is Best for Thin, Constipated People

As a family doctor at Monticello, Illinois, the whole human body, not any small part of it, was Dr. Caldwell's practice. More than half his "calls" were on women, children and babies. They are the ones most often sick. But their illnesses were usually of a minor nature—colds, fevers, headache, biliousness—and all of them required first a thorough evacuation. They were constipated.

In the course of his 47 years' practice (he was graduated from Rush Medical College back in 1875), he found a good deal of success in such cases with a prescription of his own containing simple laxative herbs with pepsin. In 1892 he decided to use this formula in the manufacture of a medicine to be known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and in that year his prescription was first placed on the market.

The preparation immediately had as great a success in the drug stores as it previously had in his private practice. Now, the third generation is using it. Mothers are giving it to their children who were given it by their mothers. Every second of the working day someone somewhere is going into a drug store to buy it. Millions of bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin are being used a year.

Its great success is based on merit, on repeated buying, on one satisfied user telling another. There are thousands of homes in this country that are never without a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and we have gotten many hundreds of letters from grateful people telling us that it helped them when everything else failed.

Every drug store stells Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Keep a bottle in your home,—where many live someone is sure to need it quickly.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.—Adv.

Makes Your Skin Twice As Lovely

Good Old-Fashioned Buttermilk Best for Complexion—Inexpensive, Too.

Woman today in her mad scramble for beauty has overlooked one of the simplest yet one of the most marvelous beautifiers the world has ever known and it comes right out of Mother Nature's own generous hand, too—plain old-fashioned buttermilk.

If you haven't tried it, there is a genuine thrill in store for you because the difference it makes in your skin is almost unbelievable.

You can get the real old-fashioned buttermilk combined with a wonderful cream if you ask your druggist for Howard's Buttermilk Cream. Just give yourself a gentle massage with it tonight for a few minutes—that's all that's necessary. Buttermilk supplies all those properties you usually have to buy a dozen or more creams in order to get; it nourishes and invigorates the skin, it is a gentle astringent that tends to reduce enlarged pores and leaves the skin ready for powder.

The first trial will absolutely change your whole idea about creams, but if you aren't satisfied Heuney & Cooper will refund your money.—Adv.

Ambition is constitutional while "pep" depends on the state of the health.

From the lips of an expressive reader, it isn't the same poetry. Even the writer of it hears it idealized.

Whatever you can't fully understand when you give your concentrated intellect to it, probably isn't so.

SEEKS GOVERNORSHIP

Here is Attorney-General Albert Ottinger, who is likely to be the Republican nominee for governor of New York. Opposing him probably will be Franklin D. Roosevelt, lifelong friend of Governor Smith and a nationally-known Democratic leader.

Considering our relation to this monster universe, stretching beyond the conception of man, we are all unimportant.

MIGHTY ORATORY OF POLITICIAN DOOMED

Radio Hookups Will Bring Voices of Candidates Into Homes

Washington, June 21—The days of the old spell-binder politician with roaring voice and mighty oratory that shook the windows and the timbers of many a town hall are doomed.

In the 1928 Republican campaign, the mild words of Herbert Hoover and his matter-of-fact non-oratorical delivery, will be nearly as effective as the stump speakers of old, whose mighty voices have turned more than one vote to their advantage.

Radio To Be Medium

Radio this year will be the medium which will bring the political messages of the Republicans and the Democrats to the voters.

Today plans were being laid by both national committees for radio hookups that will reach three-quarters of the people of the United States. More than 1,600,000 farm firesides in the strongholds of the McNary-Haugenites will resound with political cheer and grief as the campaign warms to the boiling point.

No such medium ever has been at the disposal of the politicians. While oratory is no drawback when the speaker, unseen by his audience, must exercise his abilities in front of the microphone, yet the quiet speaker is virtually as appealing as the old time, arm-waving, stamping, table beating and roaring stumper.

No Hostile Audiences

Hostile audiences lose their danger. You might even sing "Marching Through Georgia," in Savannah without being booed—if you did it over the radio from some distant point. Catcalls don't come back over the air.

Herbert Hoover will make wide use of the radio. Al Smith, if he becomes the Democratic nominee likewise will do much speaking before the microphone.

OLDEST "M" MAN

Henry L. Grant of Kenosha, Wis., holds the distinction of being the oldest "M" man of University of Michigan. He was pitcher on the first team organized, in 1864.

GIRL FLIER OFFERED MOVIE CONTRACTS

Miss Earhart Discusses Length of English Stay and Business Matters

London, June 21—Opportunities to star in moving picture thrillers were among the offers under consideration this afternoon by Miss Amelia Earhart, America's record breaking aviatrix.

Miss Earhart had planned to attend the Ascot race meet today to mingle with the social elite of England, but cancelled the trip because of fatigue and the pressure of "business matters." She said she expected to be engaged most of the afternoon with various representatives discussing the length of her stay in England and the offers of cinema, writing and lecture contracts that have poured upon her since her arrival Tuesday night.

The Boston girl spent the night at the home of Mrs. Frederick E. Guest, wealthy patroness of the Friendship's flight. She slept late, tired out by the excitement and continuous ovations of Wednesday.

Says Plane Circled City 35 Minutes Trying to Find Suitable Landing Field

Former Marion Man Brings Craft Similar to Lindbergh's "Spirit of St. Louis" Here; Speed of 135 Miles an Hour Claimed for Ship

Marion residents were given an aeronautical treat late yesterday when the sister ship of the "Spirit of St. Louis," an exact replica of the plane flown by Lindbergh across the Atlantic, swooped over the city and landed in a field opposite the farmhouse of Harry Koons, four miles north of the city on the Upper Sandusky-pk.

The plane, owned by G. H. Flaherty, a former resident of Marion and ex-member of the Marion Fire Department is a 200-horse power, Ryan monoplane constructed by the B. F. Mahoney Aircraft Corporation of San Diego, Calif. It is the seventh plane built by the Mahoney company following the construction of Lindy's ship, "The Spirit of St. Louis."

Cites Airport Need

Are Bragunier of Los Angeles, is pilot of the sister ship. Jack Rowe, also of Los Angeles, accompanied Flaherty and Bragunier to the city as passenger salesman.

In a statement made following his landing here yesterday, Flaherty expressed Marion's need for an airport.

"We circled the city for 35 minutes at an average speed of 125 miles an hour before we found the field opposite the Koon's farm," Flaherty stated. The former Marion man also expressed his opinion that the name of the city should also be placed on one of the buildings.

Claims 135-Mile Speed

The plane, according to Flaherty, is capable of traveling at a speed of 135 miles an hour. Gasoline tanks with a maximum capacity of 83 gallons are constructed in the wings. The plane started two weeks ago from Los Angeles to New York making stops at Kansas City for the Republican convention and for a few days at Chicago. The ship has made flying time of 24 hours, 20 minutes since it left the Los Angeles airport. The three fliers left Chicago early yesterday afternoon, making the trip to Marion, a distance of about 300 miles in three hours and 20 minutes. The plane was halted for a short time in Toledo, giving it an average time of about 100 miles an hour.

Flaherty a former proprietor of a radio store in Los Angeles, is a nephew of Charles Fye of Belmont-st, and has other relatives in the city. Bragunier and Rowe say they have both taken part in recent movie films, the former piloting a plane in the "Legion of the Condemned" and Rowe doubling for William Boyd in "Two Arabian Nights," and other pictures.

NO U. S. ENTRIES

International Horse Show Opens Before Huge London Crowd

LONDON, June 21—For the second year in succession there were no American entries when the International Horse Show opened today before a crowd of 30,000 persons.

Officials of the show, headed by Lord Lonsdale, the chairman, were keenly disappointed that their appeals for competition from the United States had met with negative results. Lieut. H. F. Montague, of the United States Army, won the King George Gold Challenge trophy for jumpers in 1926, when he rode Bally Macshane, but failed to defend it in 1927, and will not do so this year.

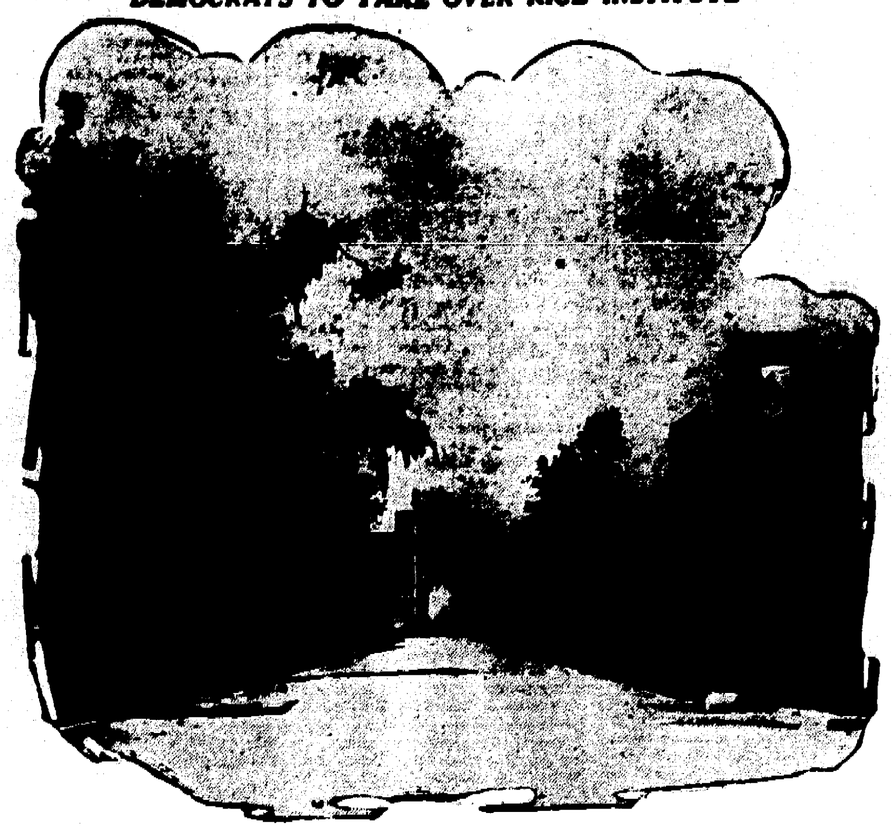
DEMOCRATS TO TAKE OVER RICE INSTITUTE



Main entrance to the beautiful grounds of Rice Institute Houston

HOUSTON, TEXAS, June For the first time in its history Rice Institute, the nation's richest privately endowed school, has turned over its entire housing facilities to aid the city of Houston in a public enterprise. The Rice dormitories, accommodating 500 persons, have been turned over to the Democratic National Convention Arrangements Committee for use in housing visitors to the convention here June 26.

Rice Institute was builded by the William Marsh Rice Estate in 1912. When Rice, one of the city's pioneer citizens, died in 1900 he left an estate which was dedicated to the endowment of a university for the free instruction of both sexes. This endowment has in recent years reached a valuation of $14,000,000.

As a lad Rice migrated from Massachusetts and made his home in Houston. Here he accumulated his fortune, and the establishment of Rice Institute was an expression of his gratitude to the city wherein he prospered.

Upon the personal recommendation of Woodrow Wilson, then president of Princeton University, Dr. Edgar Odell Lovett, professor of astronomy at Princeton, was chosen president and toured many leading countries of the world studying methods of teaching higher instruction.

It was demanded that Rice attain the standards of a university of the highest grade, stipulating no upper limit to its educational endeavor and no lower limit than the level reached by the students graduating from the better public schools and private schools preparing for college.

Thus Rice Institute was builded of Italian, French and Spanish architecture. It now has 12 lecture, laboratory and residential buildings of extraordinary beauty that has attracted international attention. Its equipment is of the finest and its 60 faculty members have been recruited from the educational centers of the world.

The present enrollment is about 1,100 and entrance requirements are exceedingly high, necessitating refusal of admittance to hundreds of students annually. Its campus of 300 acres covered with semi-tropic vegetation is one of Houston's most attractive beauty spots.

SMITH GROUP NOT TO FORCE NOMINATION

Governor's Followers Believe They Will Be in Control at Convention

Houston, Texas, June 21—While Governor Al Smith's forces feel they will be in supreme control at the Democratic National Convention next week they passed the word along today that there will be no steamroller methods employed to force the nomination of the New York executive on the first ballot.

Every favorite son will be accorded liberal opportunity by the Smith managers to show his strength and every idea for a plank in the party's platform will be carefully discussed, according to the plan mapped out by George R. Van Namee, pre-convention campaign manager for Governor Smith.

Naturally Governor Smith's managers would like to see him nominated on the first or second ballot, but they do not intend to do anything that might arouse hostile feeling against the Empire State's executive on the part of any group of delegates. But when the proper time arrives, and the Smith men are confident that it will be early in the balloting, the governor will be nominated with many votes to spare they say.

"New York stands for tolerance and free speech, for good nature and good will," Van Namee declared. "We want to give every favorite son a chance to show his strength and we want everyone to leave the convention feeling fine."

Van Namee made it plain that Smith's managers are absolutely convinced he will be nominated.

SHOOTS SON

Father Fires Upon Offspring for Betraying Him; Wounds Chum

Chicago, June 21—A father who calmly admitted he shot his son because the latter betrayed him, was held in jail here today pending outcome of his boy's wounds.

The chum of the boy was also fired upon by the father and seriously wounded.

The principals in this strange drama are James Mullaney, 65, a retired railroad detective, and James Mullaney, Jr., 27. The latter's chum who was wounded is Gene Ranger, 22.

The senior Mullaney told police that he had sacrificed his life's savings to set his son up in business, only to find him ungrateful and "double-crossing." Yesterday morning, he said, his son ordered him out of his place.

The shooting occurred last night in a candy store where Mullaney followed his son and young Ranger. Physicians say young Mullaney may die. Ranger is expected to recover.

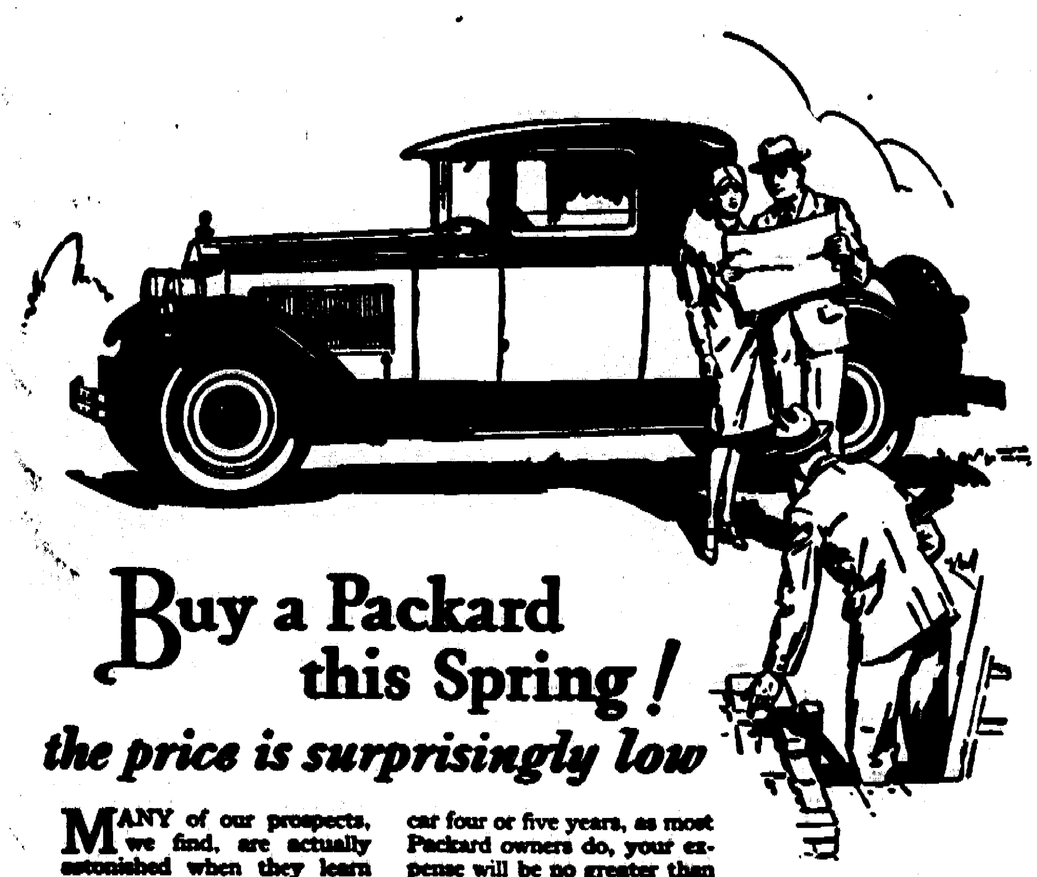
LOWER PRICES



Buy a Packard this Spring!

the price is surprisingly low

MANY of our prospects, we find, are actually astonished when they learn that Packard Six prices are fully a third less than they first supposed.

Perhaps you, too, have not realized that Packard Six prices range from as low as $2275 at the factory—that the popular Five-Passenger Sedan lists at only $2285.

Packard Six motoring costs you no more than ordinary motoring. If you keep your car four or five years, as most Packard owners do, your expense will be no greater than your outlay for buying and trading in a $1500 car every two years or so.

Why not let us estimate on the value of your present car as a down payment on your Packard? We will allow the highest price for which we can hope to sell it—and the balance can be paid on terms which you will find are very convenient. At present we can make prompt deliveries.

Bunching their hits in the sixth inning, Epworth Juniors defeated Lutheran, 4 to 3, and took over the leadership in Sunday School League No. 2. Muddy diamonds kept all other teams idle.

Things looked mighty blue for the Epworth nine when the sixth inning rolled around with three Lutheran scores safely on the book. The victors had scored one run in the first frame while the Lutherans scored in the fourth, fifth and sixth innings.

Two men were out and two men were on base when Henry, a substitute, went in to bat. The sturdy right fielder clouted a ball over the fence for a home run, giving the Epworth club three runs and a one point lead.

The victory broke up the three way tie existing for first place in the league. By being idle, United Brethren jumped to second place while the Lutherans dropped into fourth place.

PHILLIES GETTING TO BE TOUGH BALL CLUB

Powerful Philadelphia Nine Cops Seven of Last Nine Starts

New York, June 21—Mr. Hoover is not the only Quaker who is grabbing the spotlight these days. About two dozen of Will Baker's hirelings, the Phillies, have been miraculously transformed from a bunch of misfits into a mighty tough ball club.

The once pulverized but now powerful Phils have copped seven of their last nine starts (proof will be furnished upon receipt of self addressed stamped envelope) and have jacked up their percentage more than 150 points in the last 10 days. They are playing better ball than any club in the league outside of the Cardinals and are within striking distance of seventh place.

Yesterday the Phils spanked Brooklyn again, 6 to 1. Don Hurst walloped his sixth homer in eight games.

With Haines on the mound, the Cardinals increased their lead over Cincinnati to four games by smothering the Cubs, 6 to 2. Rixey of the Reds lost a 2 to 1 duel to Ray Kremer of Pittsburgh.

After knocking Herb Pennock out of the box and whipping the Yankees, 10 to 5, the Athletics were stopped by George Pipgras in the second game of a twin bill.

Garland Braxton, Washington Southpaw limited the Red Sox to four hits and whitewashed them 8 to 0.

Cleveland and Chicago halved a double bill. McCurdy's homer with the bases jammed gave the Sox the opener, 6 to 4. George Grant, Cleveland rookie hung up his fifth straight victory when the Indians grabbed the nightcap, 4 to 3. Rain halted other games.

TWO SPEEDY BOYS TO APPEAR IN MAIN GO

Mazzio and Lou Janita Slated in Eight Round Bout

Two speedy boys, one of whom has gained quite a reputation as a knock-out artist, will be seen in action Monday night at Crystal Lake Park when the second outdoor offering of the Marion Eagles Lodge will be staged.

During his amateur days, Martin Mazzio, Cleveland, held the bantam weight title of Ohio, fighting under the name of Young John Risko. While in professional circles he has knocked out eight men besides holding many decisions over other fast men.

His opponent, Lou Janita, Columbus, may not possess quite as great a punch as his opponent but makes up for it in speed. He holds decisions over Midget Mike O'Dowd and Harry Forbes.

These two men will appear in the eight round final match of the 28-round card prepared by local promoters. Two local boys will also be seen on the card.

Not on person in 1,000 can describe interestingly a movie he has seen. We've quit trying.

If matches are made in heaven the shipping clerk must make some awful blunders.

MICKEY WALKER TO MAKE SECOND STAND FOR TITLE TONIGHT

Slated to Face Ace Hudkins, Famous Nebraska Boxer, in 10-Round Encounter

Chicago, June 21—Mickey Walker, that smiling Irish lad who holds the middleweight championship of the world, makes his second defense of the title here tonight when he faces Ace Hudkins, the famous Nebraska boxer, in a 10-round encounter at Comiskey Park. They will fight to a judges' decision—if the bout lasts that long.

It is the bulldog snarling at the wildcat, and the wildcat snarling back. From the standpoint of sheer, two-fisted fighting it is the outstanding championship match in the country this year. It is a matter of fact that no bout in many a year has so completely captivated the boxing profession.

NO WALTZING
When McLarnin and McGraw Embrace in 10-Round Bout, Relief

New York, June 21—There should be no waltzing when Jimmy McLarnin and Phil McGraw embrace in their 10-round bout at Madison Square Garden tonight. McGraw is a shifty puncher who turns on the leather when he is stung. McLarnin is a deadly hitter when he can land right on his target. He will reach McGraw, who isn't as elusive as Sammy Mandell.

McGraw has never been spread on the floor and nailed down but there is a first time for everything. The Detroit florist made a better showing against Mandell than McLarnin did.

Shy little "Baby Face," who has shrunk from public contacts since his failure against the champion, has trained in the city this time and is better schooled, especially in his boxing.

McLarnin is a 7 to 5 favorite. If he defeats McGraw tonight he can choose between two good offers. Jim Mullen wants to stage a return match with Mandell in Chicago. Detroit promoters are offering a bout with Stanislaus Loayza.

POSTPONE BOUT
Heavyweight Battle of Risko, Godfrey Slated for Saturday

Ridely Park, Pa., June 21—Postponement of the heavyweight bout between George Godfrey and Johnny Risko until Saturday night is expected to add a few thousand hopecks to the large "gate" Promoter Fugasy expects to draw with this attraction.

Risko is assuming the role of Jack the Giant Killer. He looks like a small boy beside Godfrey although he weighed 197¾ pounds on the boxing commission's scales yesterday. The big negro sent the beam up to 235½ pounds. This gives Godfrey an advantage of nearly 38 pounds.

HEENEY RETURNS
Challenger Decides To Resume Training Routine After Break

New York, June 21—Tom Heeney returned to his training camp at Fairhaven, N. J., this morning after a brief break in his routine due to the sudden death of his trainer's brother at the camp last Tuesday. Heeney had not planned to resume boxing at Fairhaven until next Monday, but after a day in the city changed his schedule.

CREWS READY

Harvard, Yale to Meet in Four-Mile Battle on Thames River

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 21—So closely matched are the Harvard and Yale crews with their annual four-mile battle on the Thames River only a day away, that forecasting the outcome is like calling the turn of a coin. Some like Yale; many like Harvard. Yet the measure of difference between the two ancient rivals is apparently so minute as to be virtually indiscernible.

For today nothing more strenuous is on the program for either of the two than a couple of short paddles, with a few racing starts thrown in to get the blood running high and the muscles attuned for the fray of the morrow.

Success in conversation is something else than merely showing off.

PRIMED TO GO AT WINDY CITY

Ace Hudkins, standing, will take a crack at the crown worn by Mickey Walker, inset, when they meet in Chicago, June 21. Mickey has not been fighting much of late and friends of "Wildcat" Hudkins expect him to make a great showing against the champion.

NOTED GOLFERS MEET IN OPEN TOURNAMENT

Olympia Field Scene of Start in Championship Fray Today

Olympia Fields, Ill., June 21—Golf's greatest drama, will be represented on Olympia's enigmatic number four course this morning. The occasion will be the open championship of the United States, beginning with eighteen holes today and tomorrow and ended with thirty-six on Saturday.

The biggest golfers the world over—Bobby Jones, Walter Hagen, Archie Compston, England's best, Aubrey Boomer, champion of France; Rufus Stewart, Australian—will seek that prize through the long, strained miles of fairway.

By long odds, the starting field today will be the finest ever assembled in all the history of golf.

Jones, greatest of the great, will try to retrieve his defeat at Oakmont last year. Hagen will be seeking to add the American title to the British championship he won so sensationally at Sandwich.

Tommy Armour will be trying to defend the title that became his at the Oookmont meeting. Compston and Boomer will be there to furnish the most serious foreign gesture since the days of Vardon and Ray. Gene Sarazen, Chick Evans, Johnny Farrell, Harry Copper, George Von Elm, Willie McFarlane, MacDonald Smith, Bill Mehlhorn, Joe Turnesa, Barnes Diegel, Hutchison, Nabholtz, Bob McDonald—one could call a roll through Linkland's who's who and perhaps fail to do justice to the downright class of this event.

Jones and Hagen were the standout choices on the field of some 145 assembled at the club house this morning. Farrell, Compston, Sarazen, and Mac Smith also were spoken of with some favor.

"OLD GOLD'S smoothness," says Tommy Armour....

"is what won me in the blindfold test!"

"I know, after the first few holes, whether or not I'm going to be good . . . and when I was blindfolded and given four cigarettes to smoke, I chose OLD GOLD because the first few puffs told me that this cigarette was right! I knew that it was going to be good. Like the effortless, easy swing of a fine golfer, OLD GOLD's delightful smoothness tells a story of perfect form."

Tommy Armour

Mr. Armour smoked each of the four leading brands of cigarettes while blindfolded, taking a puff of coffee between smokes. He picked the fourth cigarette, which proved to be an OLD GOLD.

Heart-leaf tobacco makes the difference . . . even in the dark

These words describe OLD GOLD'S superiority . . . heart-leaf tobacco. Not heavy, coarse top-leaves of the tobacco plant that irritate the throat. Not withered ground-leaves that offset the mow. Only golden ripe heart-leaves give OLD GOLDS their heavy-like smoothness. That is why you can pick them . . . even in the dark.

An Amazing Public Tribute!

- two thousand carloads of General Electric Refrigerators delivered to users since April first

The General Electric Refrigerator has now been on the market just one year. From the day it was first announced, it was accepted by the public with truly amazing enthusiasm.

Since April first, more than 2000 carloads have been delivered to American homes. This is a gratifying tribute to the General Electric Refrigerator—a true achievement in electrical engineering. It is the worthy product of the Research Laboratories of the world's largest electrical manufacturer.

Nine factories working at top speed

The tremendous demand for these "years ahead" refrigerators has made it necessary to increase production again and again—just as rapidly as is consistent with General Electric standards of quality. Now nine factories are working at top speed to take care of the increasing volume of business.

Just as soon as each refrigerator has passed its many rigid tests, it is shipped to a waiting customer. We are assured by the factories that all orders now on file will be filled within the next few weeks

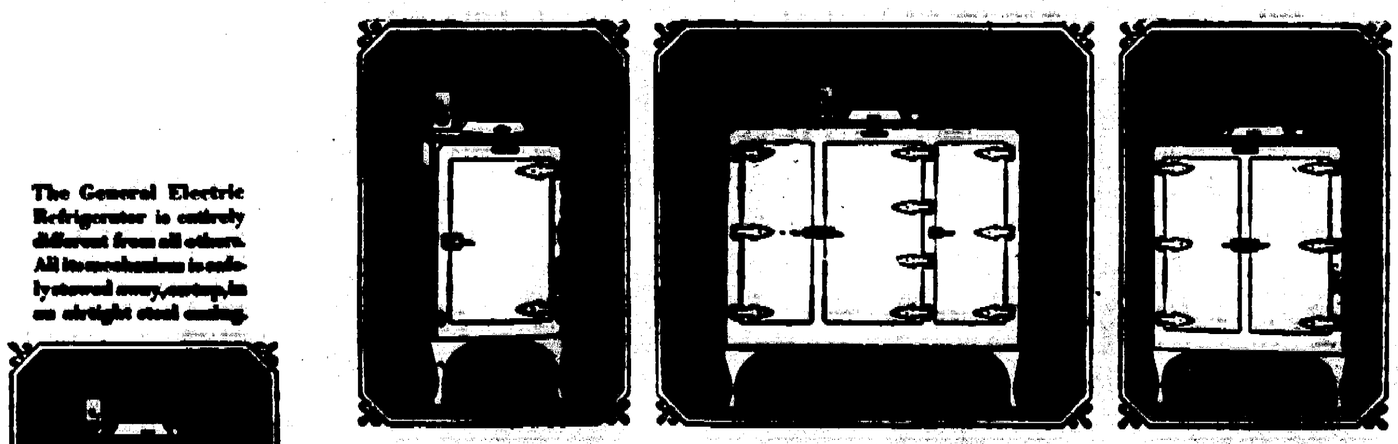
We suggest that you place your order now

If you are planning to purchase a refrigerator this summer, we strongly advise you to come in at once and place your order. Then you will be sure of having your refrigerator just as soon as you are ready for it.

The first 100,000 discriminating American women to choose this revolutionary refrigerator have been its best advertisers. They have pronounced it unusually quiet, economical in operation, easy to keep clean and worry-proof. It is their verdict which, in a large measure, is responsible for this hearty nation-wide acceptance!

GENERAL ELECTRIC Refrigerator

The General Electric Refrigerator is entirely different from all others. All its mechanism is enclosed in a sightly steel casing.



These refrigerators are unusually quiet, automatic, and they never need oiling. They are made and guaranteed by General Electric.

Guaranteed by Henney & Cooper Drug Co. And All Good Druggists

Industrial Stocks Gravitate to Slightly Lower Level of Prices

Markets at a Glance

Industrial stocks, irregular; railroad stocks, irregular; domestic bonds, irregular; foreign bonds, irregular; call money 6 1-2 per cent; cotton, strong; grain steady; oil, firm; pig iron, firm; sugar, steady; rubber, firm; foreign exchange irregular.

By W. S. COUSINS
(International News Service Financial Editor)

New York, June 21—Industrial stocks gravitated to a slightly lower level of prices in a dull and featureless market today. Transactions in the first three hours were about 40 per cent under the volume of yesterday's session, which in turn recorded a shrinkage of 30 per cent from the 4,000,000 share rate of recent record. Strength of the better grade of oil stocks was an outstanding feature of the market, while the railroad equipments exhibited the most reactionary tone.

Bearish traders found it more difficult to dislodge outside holdings of speculative stocks at the current level of prices, which has already undergone a shrinkage of from 20 to 80 points under the peaks of the year. The brokerage houses in a special survey made by Dow Jones and Co. reported extensive liquidation from the outside speculative centers, as the result of which a decrease of from $100,000,000 to $250,000,000 in brokers loans this week was forecast in the financial district. The report is released after the close of the market today.

The results of the above survey also show quite clearly that thousands of "get rich quick" new speculators stocks have been wiped out by the 20 per cent shrinkage in stock values over the past two weeks.

New York, June 21—Opening Liberty bond quotations: 3½s 100.7; first 4¼s 101.16; third 4¼s 100.1; fourth 4¼s 101.28 and treasury 3½s, 101.25.

TODAY'S REVIEW OF GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, June 21—All the grains were strong from the opening yesterday and closed with good gains for the session. Export business in wheat started covering in that cereal and shorts in corn followed the lead.

At the close wheat was up 1 3-4 to 2c; corn was 1 to 1 1-2c higher; oats were 5-8 to 1c better; rye was 1 3-4 to 3 1-8c up.

The markets seemed to be in debatable ground at the close and the trade may be cautious today. The advances appeared to be due more to an oversold technical condition than anything in the news, export business notwithstanding.

To me it seems highly doubtful that prices have yet definitely turned into a higher trend. A lot of backing and filling may have to take place before a firm enough undertone is built up to furnish support on setbacks.

May Be Dangerous

If wheat advances again early today, such an upturn may be dangerous to follow. This is a good time for the trader to keep close to shore or out of the speculative sea altogether for a time.

In the grain markets the worst missteps are made near the ends of big swings, either upward or downward. We may be near the end of a big downward swing or prices may be going lower. Give the market a chance to cool out and adjust itself speculatively after the recent break and the wrenching reversal of yesterday.

The general prospect on wheat is still bearish. The only question is whether the decline from the tops of a couple of months ago has effected a price readjustment to value. That the market itself will clearly indicate eventually. It may be wise not to attempt prematurely to determine what the market's decision is going to be.

Toledo Close

Toledo, June 21—Cash grain close: Wheat—2 red 1.74 1-2@1.75 1-2; corn 2 yellow 1.06@1.07; 3 yellow 1.05@1.06; oats 2 white 73 1-2@75 1-2; rye 2 1.42.

Seed close—Clover, cash imported old 13.75; domestic cash 17.25; Oct. 18.25B; Dec. 19.00B; alsike, cash 15.50; August 16.25B; timothy cash 2.25; Dec. 2.70B.

MARION STEAM SHOVEL STOCK ADVANCE NOTED

A rise of nearly seven points was noted in Marion Steam Shovel Co. common stock on the New York curb market in the past two days. Following a drop from a peak of 93 to 81 last week, the local stock opened at 87 3-4 on yesterday's market and remained at that quotation. Share sales totalled 200.

Bids of 130 on Huber Manufacturing Co., common stock and 103 on preferred stock, were made on the Columbus exchange yesterday.

BANK CLEARINGS

Bank clearings continue to show a decline under that of last week. Yesterday's clearings were reported at the Marion County bank today as $36,-296.60 compared to $62,623.56 on the corresponding day last week.

HEIRESS CLEMENCY

Superior, Wis., June 21—Formal announcement was made at the temporary executive offices today that President Coolidge has denied a petition for clemency made in behalf of Nicolas Lee Ragles, John Proctor, and Samuel Morgan, three Washington youths sentenced to die tomorrow for the murder of a policeman.

One reason men discarded diamonds is that you have to [illegible] up to, to sign [illegible].

To speak evil of a man in his absence is cowardly; in his presence—dangerous.

Usually, a person with a proud disposition has to get his entire satisfaction out of that.

TOWN IS TERRORIZED BY DYNAMITE BLAST

Seven Dry Houses of Powder Company Explode Near Allentown

Allentown, Pa., June 21—A brilliant flare in the sky accompanied by an earth-jolting blast and seven of the 10 dynamite drying houses of the Trojan Powder Co., about 10 miles northwest of this city, exploded early today.

Four night watchmen, the only employes reported on the reservation, have been accounted for. One of them, however, Alfred Frittinger was hurled several feet being dazed and shocked but otherwise uninjured.

The blast was felt for 25 miles away and residents of Riverton and Palmyra, New Jersey, were awakened by the detonation. The plant is located between Orth and Greenwald on the lines of the Reading Railroad.

The entire city was aroused and for almost an hour terror reigned until the cause of the terrific explosion could be learned.

JOHN GOOD SCOUT

Rockefeller and Family Entertain 200 Pocantico Hills Residents

Tarrytown, N. Y., June 21—Neighbors of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., averred today that the multi-millionaire and his wife are "real home folks."

Mr. and Mrs. Rockefeller and their sons, John, Nelson, Laurence and Winthrop, entertained some 200 residents of Pocantico Hills last night. The million dollar playhouse and the Abberton Lodge were used. At least half of the guests used the big swimming pool.

It was the first time the estate had been thrown open in this manner since the I. W. W. riots of 1914. Mr. and Mrs. Rockefeller, however, told the guests that this sort of entertainment would be frequent in the future.

FIREMEN DAMPENED

Come Out Second Best With College Boys Burning Effigy

Hoboken, N. J., June 21—Hoboken's fire fighters won't interfere with the college boys at Stevens Tech again in a hurry, for they came off second best in a battle with some 2,000 students on the campus last night.

The trouble started when the students, celebrating the end of the college year, burned an effigy of Calculus.

When things appeared to be going too far the firemen turned a hose on the students. The students, however, rushed the nozzle holders, captured the hose, and turned it on the firemen. Nobody was arrested, although almost everybody got wet.

Ritzy Rosalie

It's a question whether Rosalie is holding her coat open to allow the cool breezes to do their work or to display the other side of her reversible coat. To all appearances she is wearing just another black silk coat, but this one is quite different. In the twinkle of an eye Rosalie can reverse it into a smart sport coat printed in the most approved scenic wonders of the world.

Since flowers on the coat are not quite as much in favor as formerly they must have a definite reason for being there. And their latest purpose in life is to be the same kind and color as those posed on the hat.

Lightning Flashes and Heavy Rains Fail to Dampen Ardor of 56 Youthful Marion Campers at Hepburn

Boys Facing Real Outdoors with Great Delight and Little Fear

BY KARL B. McELROY
Star Staff Writer

The entire world may be all wet but heavy rains of the past several days have not in the least dampened the ardor of 56 Marion boys who are enjoying the benefits of Camp Robert Usher of the Marion Y. M. C. A. at Hepburn.

Pattering of raindrops whipped by rain and occasional flashes of lightning that light up the sky in vivid streaks of color fails to frighten even the most timid of the youngsters as they huddle inside the welcome shelter of a tent.

It is the real outdoors that they are facing with great delight and but little fear. These little hardships will have no small part in the forming of the future lives of many of these boys.

New to 40 Boys

Camping conditions have not been ideal since the boys first pitched their tents Monday morning. When the sun occasionally peaks out from behind a dark cloud it is the signal for great rejoicing as the boys prepare for some new experience in life.

About 40 of these boys are having their first experience in camp and many of these have not been away from home for any great length of time. In spite of this fact very few are homesick.

Camp is being run this year under the direction of F. O. Rudolph, physical director of the Y. M. C. A., with the assistance of Ward Ewalt, Pittsburgh, Pa., who last year worked in the same capacity at the Boy Scout Camp of the Harding Area. These two men are natural leaders of boys and are quite popular.

Stampede for Meals

At meal time there is a regular stampede as hungry campers make a dash through the doors of the mess hall where a tasty meal prepared by Mrs. Ira Adams, Waldo, awaits them.

It is not all play for the boys as each have certain tasks to perform each day. After each meal the tent leaders appoint two members from each group to wash dishes. Tables must be washed and the floor swept. After that, oh boy! Games, swimming, boating and other things that go to aid in the physical development of youth take up most of the time.

One thing that made a favorable impression on the writer was the exceptional cleanliness of the camp. The kitchen was glistening white, while the tents were kept in orderly condition. Bunks were carefully made and shoes lined up on the floor in the even row, not in the usual method one expects of boys.

Up at 7 O'clock

Every precaution has been taken to insure the health of the boys. All activities are carefully supervised by able leaders to see that the boys take no unnecessary risks. Guards patrol the lake when the youths take their daily swim while swimming lessons are given those new to the water.

Every morning campers are aroused from a sound sleep at 7 o'clock. Sitting up exercises and a dip in the lake are followed by breakfast. Instruction in various lines of work take up the balance of the morning and at noon dinner is served.

Sports occupy most of the program during the afternoon and at 5 o'clock every tent is inspected as well as the boys by Director Rudolph. All tents must present an orderly appearance and woe be unto the boy presenting dirty finger nails, uncombed hair, a dirty neck or ears.

Taps at 9:30 O'clock

After supper sports again appear on the program followed by a huge camp fire and stunts. In case of rain, night activities are transferred to recreation hall.

Thenu at 9:30 o'clock taps are sounded and every light in the camp twinkles for a while and then goes out marking the close of another day filled with interesting and wholesome activities.

Boys attending the first period at camp are:

Rheumatism And Neuritis Made Her A Cripple

Konjola Brings Amazing Relief After Years of Suffering

MRS. R. L. O'NAN

"Konjola has practically made me over," said Mrs. R. L. O'Nan, 1708 E. Fifth Street, Dayton, Ohio. "I was crippled with rheumatism and neuritis. I had severe pains in my back and the joints of my knees were so stiff and sore that I could hardly walk. At night I would be dreadfully nervous and it was almost impossible for me to get more than a few hours sleep.

"I started taking Konjola and soon found that this medicine was different than anything I had ever tried for my trouble. It seemed to drive the rheumatism poisons right out of my system. The aches and pains are gone and the joints of my knees are limbered up. My nerves are stronger and I sleep fine at nights.

"This Konjola also restored my husband's health and we both feel it has been a Godsend to our home. We recommend this surprising medicine to all who suffer."

Konjola is different than any other known remedy in this section. It contains twenty-two juices extracted from natural plants which invigorate the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels to a more healthy action. The effect of Konjola on the entire system brings amazing relief in cases of suffering that had been going on for years. At the same time many weak and rundown systems have been restored to a new state of health through this compound. Such a vast number of men and women in this city have told of their experience with this new medical product until now Konjola is the most highly indorsed medicine that is known in this vicinity.

Konjola is strongly recommended here in Marion at Stump & Sams Pharmacy, and is also being sold by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this section.—Adv.

Our Splendid Gift to Belgium.

Although the new library of the University of Louvain, the splendid gift of the people of the United States to the people of Belgium, will not be formally dedicated until July 4, the scaffolding about the building has been removed and its doors opened to the public, with the result that thousands from all parts of Belgium have already inspected it and become enthusiastic over the beauty of its architecture.

"I consider it the most beautiful modern building on the European continent," was the unhesitatingly uttered appreciation of our ambassador to Belgium, Hugh Gibson, following the visit made by him to the library Sunday. "It will be a lasting reminder of the warmth of American friendship and a lasting monument to the architect, Whitney Warren."

The remarkable phase of comment is that it is so generally in accord, so far as the beauty of the edifice is concerned, with that of our ambassador. Architects from all parts of Europe are in seeming agreement that the library is a superb combination of the Flemism renaissance with modern ideas and improvements, an even more beautiful structure and immeasurably better adapted to the purpose for which it has been constructed than the one which was burned at the time Belgium was utilized as an approach to France by the hereditary enemies of the French people.

The building has been constructed to accommodate 1,500,000 volumes and half this number have already been placed, having been restored by Germany in conformity with the terms of the treaty of Versailles.

One detail, which will be interesting to the college and school youth of our land, is that the outer walls of the new library carry the names of every school and college which contributed to the fund for its construction. Inscribed in gold letters may be found, along with the names of the greatest universities of our land, those of the humblest school which contributed its mite to restore to the university the library of which it was despoiled during the Great war.

Many war memorials have been erected throughout the lands of the Allies and those who fought with them, but none the equal of this, which not only bespeaks the friendship of the people of the great republic associated with the Allied cause, but also houses one of the reparations exacted by those who dictated the terms of peace to those who sought it—750,000 thousand volumes—750,000 bits of evidence that those who make war sometimes suffer for it.

George Remus Is Freed.

George Remus, who shot his wife to death last October, is again a free man so far as physical restraint is concerned, having been released from the Lima State Hospital for the Insane, Wednesday afternoon, following the majority finding of the Ohio supreme court upholding the finding of the appellate court in Lima that he was being illegally kept a prisoner.

That the supreme court would uphold the finding of the appellate court was a foregone conclusion. It could not well have done anything else, nor could the appellate court have legally done other than find that Remus was illegally restrained of his liberty.

The Hamilton county jury before which he was tried found Remus not guilty of the murder of his wife, holding him insane. The members of the jury may have labored under the impression that he was temporarily insane at the time of the murder. They may have actually so believed. But that they believed him to be insane at the time of the trial in the face of all the professional testimony offered by the state is most decidedly open to question. It would be far easier to believe that they felt that the slaying of his wife was a case of justifiable homicide. In any event, the jury found him not guilty.

That the higher courts would uphold the commitment of Remus to the insane asylum on the showing made at the insanity hearing was beyond the belief of those who followed the case closely. The showing that he was a man of excitable disposition; that he was a man of violent temper; that a man of his temperament might commit a crime unless placed under restraint, lacked so much in the way of proof of his insanity that any one conversant with the law and many who were not must have realized that the action of the court in sending him to Lima would almost certainly be overruled if carried to a higher court. It must have been seriously embarrassing to the attorneys acting for the state to set out and maintain one day that Remus was perfectly sane and a few days later seek his commitment to an insane asylum on the ground of insanity.

No matter what one may think of the action of the Hamilton county common pleas jury in finding Remus not guilty on the ground of insanity; no matter what may be the reflection cast upon the American jury system by such a verdict, there can be little question of the action of the appellate court in finding that he was being held a prisoner illegally or of the action of the supreme court in approving that finding.

We refrain from making comment on the action of the court committing him to the asylum. By some hook or crook of the law, or some judicial construction of the law, comment on our part might be construed as contempt of court, and nothing is further from our thought than desire to show contempt for any court.

The twenty-nine-year-old bride accused of the killing of her aged and wealthy husband out in Los Angeles may be guilty, but it's a significant fact that the wound shows that he wasn't shot in the back "in self-defense."

Speaking of the dance marathon there, the health officer of New York City says that "it is entirely possible that the reports which have been in the newspapers saying that the contestants temporarily are unbalanced mentally, are true." When a passenger plane was compelled to make a landing over in the Rhineland, one of the horns of a cow it hit pierced its gasoline tank, and its five occupants were burned to death. If the exceptional makes the news, here's the real news item of the year.

While Governor Smith unquestionably did the proper thing in affording protection to Senator Heflin when the latter spoke just outside Albany, there doubtless are many of his party—and some others for that matter—who can't help feeling regret that the governor didn't let nature take her course.

"I Was Just Baggage."

Miss Amelia Earhart's statement to a press representative, that she was "just baggage" aboard the Friendship, may not assist materially in establishing her reputation as an aviatrix, but it speaks well for her candor and honesty.

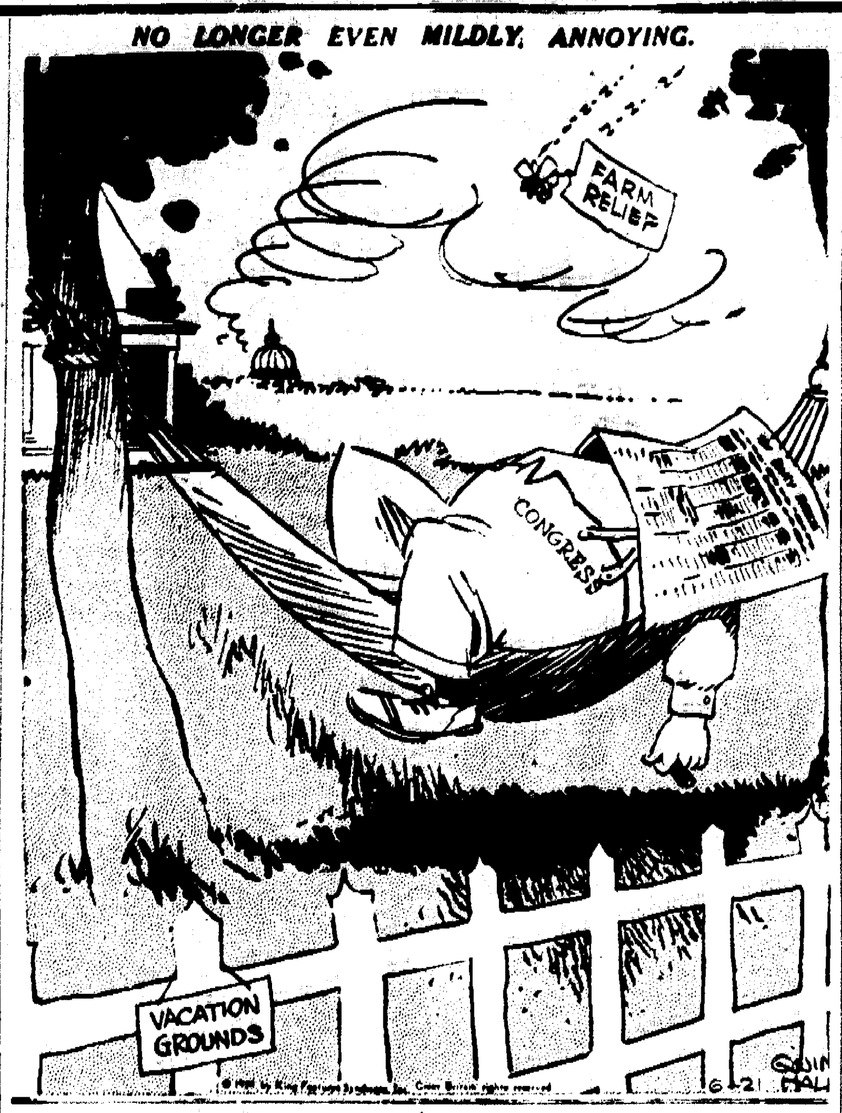
Miss Earhart explained that she had not piloted the Friendship on the flight across the Atlantic not because she couldn't fly an aeroplane, but because of the fact that all the way across, save for about an hour, she and her companions were flying through blankets of fog which obscured their vision and made blind flying necessary.

"Stultz is a brilliant pilot without being able to see anything but instruments," Miss Earhart says, "but I just can't do it. In clear weather I would have, but we had mist for such a long time that it was impossible."

In a word, Miss Earhart is a fair-weather flier. She doesn't pretend to be a navigator, she admits that she can not fly blind and that on the way across the ocean she took much the same role as that of Levine, when he went across with Chamberlin and was classed as a passenger, although Levine did pilot their aeroplane for a time.

Miss Earhart has the distinction of being the first woman to fly across the Atlantic. She has unquestionable courage. She is frank, and has displayed becoming modesty, but the crossing made by her can hardly be said to have demonstrated her fitness—or woman's fitness, for that matter—to pilot a heavier-than-air machine across the Atlantic.

NO LONGER EVEN MILDLY, ANNOYING.



Panting for Breath.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Swelling or puffiness of a part of the body is a familiar symptom. It is given the name oedema or edema. Usually the condition of edema is accompanied by an increased amount of fluid in the tissues. In a sense it is a kind of dropsy.

There are diseases of the lungs in which there is an escape of fluid from the blood vessels into the air-cells themselves. It is about this I would speak today.

You will recall that the vital portions of the lungs are the minute air-cells to which goes the air we breathe. The walls of these cells contain tiny blood vessels. Both the walls of the cells and the blood vessel walls are very, very thin. They are so thin, indeed that the oxygen of the air in the cells passes through the walls into the blood itself.

Sometimes, however, the process is reversed and the fluid of the blood escapes into the air cells. Then we have edema.

The first step in this process is congestion. There are some diseases of the lungs which are accompanied by marked increase in its blood supply. It is in such a disease that there is the possibility of leakage of fluid into the air cells.

Bright's disease, pneumonia, certain forms of heart disease, pregnancy, hardening of the arteries and convulsions produce congestion of the lungs. In any one of these we may have edema of the lungs as a symptom.

Were all the air cells of the lungs to be filled suddenly with fluid as a result of edema, death would be as immediate as in drowning. You can see that the practical effect would be the same. In one case the fluid would find its way through the mouth into the lungs and so to the air cells. In complete edema the air cells would be filled from fluid supplied by the blood.

Fortunately, such serious cases are not common. Even if the attack is mild, however, the symptoms are severe.

First, there is a tightening in the chest and panting for breath. The difficulty in breathing increases. Coughing and frothy expectoration follow. The cough is constant and some blood may be expelled.

Naturally the difficult breathing is alarming to the victim. He becomes excited and is sure he will die. This increases the congestion and adds to the trouble.

Paleness, cold perspiration and weak pulse may be observed. In breathing the air passes through the fluid in the air cells and the bubbling may be heard. Noisy breathing is one of the symptoms.

The attack may pass on in a few hours and then disappear, only to recur. One authority tells of a patient who had an attack every week or two for two or three years.

The underlying condition should be given attention and every such case requires good medical care. It is important to consult the doctor.

Editorial Opinion.

ACCEPTING THE FACTS.

Senator Charles L. McNary, of Oregon, co-author of the famous McNary-Haugen bill, has been quick to recognize the decisiveness and authority of the platform vote at Kansas City. He sees that, though farm relief was vitalized there as a Republican principle and promise, the false method of assistance which he favored—the equalization fee or tax—is dead beyond resurrection. He has accepted the convention's platform and Secretary Hoover's explicit assurance: "We will and must find a sound solution that will bring security and contentment to this great section of our people."

Mr. McNary and his colleague, Mr. Steiwer, badly misjudged the wishes of the Oregon Republicans when they sought to override the president's veto of the McNary-Haugen act. The Oregon delegation at Kansas City voted unanimously to accept the majority platform report and to sustain the president. Other senators found themselves deserted with equal unanimity—Mr. Johnson in California, Mr. Pine, in Oklahoma, and Mr. Oddie, in Nevada. In New Mexico Mr. Cutting's vote challenging the veto was rebuked by eight to one; in Idaho Mr. Gooding's similar vote was rebuked by ten to one. Senators Norris and Howell both sided against the president; but Nebraska's vote in the convention was nine for them and ten for the president. In Kansas Mr. Capper opposed the veto, but his state supported it by seventeen to six. In Washington Mr. Jones' alignment with the equalization group bloc was condemned by sixteen to one.

It is needless to multiply instances in which the equalization fee, so popular in congress, failed to appeal to Republican voters back home. The western states favor farm relief, but not reckless uneconomic remedies like the Bryanistic equalization levy. The western senators who failed to realize what home sentiment was on this issue are left without any serviceable defense for their action. They thought that they were playing skilful politics and protecting themselves in their constituencies. They went far wrong, and political common sense now counsels them to admit their error and make amends for it.

Mr. McNary hopes to see a practical farm relief bill, omitting the equalization gamble, passed at the coming short session or at the first session of the next congress. So do all the farmer's real friends and well-wishers. At the convention the West itself asked for such a measure. In view of that request there is every reason why the other equalization fee senators should follow Mr. McNary's rational example and bow to the verdict both of their own sections and of the national party.—New York Herald Tribune.

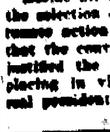
THE VICE-PRESIDENTIAL NOMINATION.

Nobody who saw the proceedings at the final session of the Kansas City convention, at which the Republican vice-presidential candidate was nominated, can doubt that the selection of Senator Charles Curtis strengthened the party ticket and brightened the party prospects for November.

From the standpoint of Republicanism, the convention had been solidly satisfactory up to that time. The nomination of Mr. Hoover had created enthusiasm and confidence, and the optimism which comes from a consciousness that the right thing has been done. There had been some differences over the party platform, but none of them had gone beyond reconcilement, and all but the most extreme professional exponents of the McNary-Haugen bill had decided to be satisfied with the agricultural plank as adopted. Indeed most of the genuine farm representatives were delighted with that plank, since they had no real use for the "equalization" scheme, and were rather grateful to President Coolidge for having vetoed the measure containing it. So except for the regulation growlings and vaporings of a few radicals, the assemblage was in a pleasant mood and sore spots were at a minimum.

But something still was needed in order to put a finishing touch on the get-together move by creating a vivid sense of party solidarity to round out the convention by providing a little color and sentiment, and to give everybody a chance to get in on the ground floor with respect to a major decision by the gathering. And that something came when the name of Charles Curtis was presented, and practically the whole floor of the house rose in a burst of genuine approval and enthusiasm that included both the east and the west, both the business man and the agriculturist, and put the convention into an "Auld Lang Syne" mood.

Beside all that, there was a general feeling that the selection of Senator Curtis was a wise and fortunate action from every practical standpoint and that the convention had done itself credit and had justified the expectation of people back home by placing in vice-presidential nomination a man of real presidential size.—Detroit Free Press.



How much better it is to get wisdom than gold! and to get understanding rather to be chosen than silver.—Proverbs 16:16.

Prayer—Lord, help us always to seek for the best and may it become our possession.

New God of Storms.

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS.

Only a couple of years ago public attention was called to Greenland as the pole of cold and of storms for the northern hemisphere. Since then, Professor W. H. Hobbs, of Ann Arbor, has established a weather observatory at Mount Evans on the great Greenland ice-cap. This new weather outpost has effected radio communication with the outer world, and a dispatch to Professor Hobbs at Ann Arbor on December 4 of last year told of a great storm that began to sweep the hissing snow from the hard face of the vast continental glacier on December 2, two days in advance of its appearance on the ship lanes of the Atlantic. This is virtually a repetition of what occurred in July of last year when the Greenland observatory announced the brewing of a storm over the ice-cap which forty-eight hours later was raging on the Atlantic.

It may well be that this Greenland observatory with its radio outfit will become the most important center of storm prediction for the North Atlantic ocean. The theory that has been set forth concerning the influence of Greenland over ocean storms assumes that the cold air currents rushing down the vast ice slopes of that lofty glacial continent revive and intensify cyclonic disturbances crossing the Atlantic, and whip them into destructive tempests.

Just look at a picture of the North polar region within thirty degrees of the pole. At one side of the Arctic ocean Greenland appears as a huge white tongue of ice, 1,500 miles long, from 200 to 300 mile wide, and with a maximum thickness possibly as great as two miles. With the exception of the Antarctic continent which surrounds the South pole, it is by far the greatest accumulation of solid ice on the face of the earth. But while the immense Antarctic mass is isolated far from all lands other than that which it buries, Greenland is thrust down far into the North Atlantic ocean, quite close to North America, splitting the northern part of that ocean into two parts. From its projecting, glaciers on both sides, it launches fleets of icebergs, which carried by southward currents, invade the world's greatest shipping area, where they have deposited a large part of the material that forms the enormous "Banks of Newfoundland." Greenland is also the source of the cold Labrador current, which has so great an effect upon the climate of New England and other Eastern states.

Containing, as appears, the "pole of cold," Greenland serves as a condenser of cold air which descends upon it, forming a huge high pressure area over its great flattened dome, from whose icy, wind-swept slopes the dense cold air flows down with accelerated motion, pouring off the steep coast with almost cataract violence, and then sweeping out over the level ocean toward the shipping lanes.

If Greenland and its qualities had been known to the ancients they would have invented another god of tempests, a greater Aeolus, and seated him on that stupendous icy throne to dispense the storms. But since this is the age of science instead of mythology, we admit no lawless gods.

Famous Bottle Temple.

BY TEMPLE MANNING.

There are but three Mohammedan temples in all of China. One of these, the sacred "Bottle" of Cathay is extremely interesting. It is, as the name implies, built in the shape of a bottle. Very few non-Mohammedans have ever been vouchsafed the honor of being permitted to view its interior, but we have it from one of the privileged that it is indeed a remarkable place.

The walls are decorated with frescoes illustrating the Mohammedan traditions, the ceilings are beautifully decorated while great carved columns support the floors. A wealth of jewels ornament the shrines and images contained in the temple.

But it is the exterior of the structure that is chiefly remarkable. Quite aside from the odd shape of the building, its workmanship is indeed exquisite. Marvelous carvings, reliefs and statues adorn the walls. Many of these are painted in vivid colors, others are grotesquely formed, many are bizarre. Certainly all are interesting.

That part of the building that is not hidden by statues and carvings is finished with tiling, all in delicate, lovely shades. Of course, time has dimmed the colors, but that is being remedied. After the repairs, which have already been started, the "Bottle" may be seen as it was many, many years ago.—Copyright, 1928, Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, June 21—The strange attraction shadowy creatures of the underworld inspire among dazzling and worldly as well as unsophisticated ladies is not altogether the imaginings of novelists and playwrights seeking to raise goose pimples. Broadway knows of many such liaisons.

Investigation of the murder of a beautiful blonde found garroted in her sumptuous apartment a few years ago brought about the discovery she was the habitual consort of criminals. Money received from devoted admirers of the upper world was generously distributed to a lover in the lower.

Chiefly this odd enticement exists amid the transient gaiety of the Broadway bohemian demi-monde, but not altogether. Around last Christmas time the father of an alluring debutante received this unsigned message: "Your daughter is visiting night clubs with a crook."

He immediately investigated, found it true and the girl is now under strict surveillance in a small resort town in Europe. Three girls not of society, but from select homes and of respectable parentage have had marriages to libertines annuled in the last several years.

The appearance of a girl of uncommon loveliness escorted to a night club by some scar-faced gorilla in an ill-fitting dinner suit is an ordinary occurrence. It no longer causes surprise. Out of these associations have come many unsolvable crimes, both passional and monetary.

The Dot King and Elwell murder mysteries as well as several others that rocked the town had an underworld and night club background. Three wives of rich and respectable husbands, beaten and stripped of their jewels, were found to be romancing with gigolos.

This is the new and dangerous night life that has sprung up with the unsavory speak-easy. Girls from respectable families, woozy with gin, visit these joints and rub elbows with sinister figures of a world they never knew. Many are thrilled and it is inevitable a few must pay the price.

Expert film-flammers rarely single out rich men for victims save in cases of blackmail. They find pay-dirt among those who, harassed by debt, are seeking a way out. The man on a big salary, but heavily in debt, is an immediate candidate for the "works." He will take a chance. The rich are cautious. That's why they're rich. Headwaiters know that it is the rich man who invariably adds up his meal check carefully and tips fairly, but moderately. He never patronizes gyp theatrical ticket agencies and is always ready to dispute an over-charge, no matter how small. He suffers from no common fear of being thought cheap, as do the rest of us lowly prunes.

It is an odd commentary on human reasoning that the average man will suffer himself to be gypped of a trifling sum rather than appear cheap in the eyes of a crook. Ordinary mortals shrink from the sneer of a hat checker, but the rich man doesn't. He is too busy with other thoughts.

The most unusual hotel story of the week concerns a man who awakened in the night and found a hornet buzzing over his head. He turned on the lights and armed with a newspaper, gave battle, but was not victorious until the hornet sat down under his right eye. He appeared for breakfast with a tightly-closed optic and took the next train for back yonder. Somehow it is difficult to think of fighting hornets in New York.

I just asked a hotel floor waiter who was born and reared in New York if he had ever seen a hornet. "Yes, sir," he replied, "I heard a fellow play one at the Hippodrome." He probably was referring to a chandelier.

There is a certain snippy type of New Yorker whose autocratic manner is extended even to a stranger. Hurrying out of my hotel this evening, one planted himself in front of me and brusquely snapped: "Where is Sherry's?" I gave him an Arctic glance and passed on. Of course I know where it is. I wish I had as much money as I know where Sherry's is. — Copyright, 1928, by the McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

A certain American statesman of recent years had a friend who was such a good friend that he told the statesman about his faults.

"The trouble with you," said the friend, "is that while nobody questions your ability and your brilliant attainments, you are so egotistic you are making yourself unpopular. Think this over. I am telling you as your friend."

In a few days the statesman came back. He said to his friend: "You are right. I am egotistic. I see it. I thank you. But I call your attention to the fact that most other great men have been egotistic. Look at Julius Caesar, Napoleon and all the rest."

There is a difference between having self-assurance and being hopelessly egotistic.

Unless it be the Indian there are no 100 per cent Americans. Let Americans boast as much as they please, they come from all the races of the earth. Intelligence and thoughtful living and good citizenship come out of all races. Don't fret about your ancestors or brag about them either. Think about your own record—here and now.

People may be unlettered, but not ignorant. Many men and women who never learned to read or write have been good and great people. Education is not necessarily college education. The man who can most successfully adjust himself to the changing circumstances of life is the educated man.

Addressing a race betterment conference some time ago, Dr. Irving Fisher, professor of political economy at Yale, said, "My studies in health arose originally from my own lack of health thirty years ago."

Theodore Roosevelt was noted for his interest in athletic affairs, and yet he was a sickly youth in college.

It is a man's handicap which often calls his attention to the extra effort which will make him a real success. Handicap demands a margin of effort—the margin of effort over what the ordinary man gives a job. Often big results come by the route of serious handicap.

"Plastering" Headlining Act at Palace Theater; Workers Transforming Building Into Beauty Spot

Lobby of "Turn" Is 50 Feet in Air, Star Reporter Finds

BY TOM BUCHANAN
Star Staff Writer

A THREE-ACT drama entitled "Plastering" carries the burden of the program at the Marion Palace this week. Although there are specialties built around a theme of heat-defying and fresh air, which make the program one of interest to every theater goer of the city, "Plastering" is the headliner and takes the spotlight.

While the scene of action in the act is expected to shift as the week wears on, at present it is laid near the ceiling of the new theater. Tuesday morning the actors, consisting of a half dozen plasterers, wheel barrow pushers, and plaster mixers began rehearsing for the act. By the end of the week it is expected to be taken off the program.

With a temporary halt in activities on the outside of the new theater the audience has necessarily become limited although the programs now being staged on the inside are no less interesting. If one is fortunate enough to be admitted it is well worth the climb of more than 50 feet to the temporary stage near the great arch-shaped ceiling where the leading act of the week is being put on.

A full appreciation of the size of Marion's new playhouse cannot be gained until one looks from the ceiling down into the orchestra pit. With the aid of a little imagination one can see, from this point of vantage, row upon row of orchestra and balcony seats, the mezzanine in their places, and the rise and fall of the curtains as the actors do their stunt on the mammoth stage.

But on second look these things are forgotten and imagination is replaced by a sudden sinking sensation in the region of the stomach. Fifty feet looks like a long distance to one whose natural habitat is terra firma.

What one really sees from the ceiling of the new Palace Theater is a mass of scaffolding, piles of sand on the cement floors to keep them from marring, large galvanized iron ducts which some day will provide theater patrons with fresh air to keep them cool in hot weather and warm in winter. Outlets for these tubes in the floor of the balcony insure proper ventilation under all conditions.

Balmy Summer Evening

Soon electricians are to begin installation of small electric light bulbs at random in the ceiling. These, with a mechanical device of some sort which produces first grade artificial clouds, are intended to give the impression of a balmy summer evening although it may be raining torrents outside. The mural decorations which are to be typically Spanish are to be in keeping with the atmosphere created by the synthetic stars and drifting clouds.

A descent to the balcony and one feels more at home. Immediately to the rear and in the center is the main stairway from the first floor. On either side of the stairway are entrances into the men's and women's lounging suites which are to be elaborately arranged into smoking rooms, cosmetic rooms, rest rooms, and maid's quarters. On the east side is an entrance leading into the ushers' quarters.

No Cramping

A noticeable feature of the balcony is the wide ledges on which the rows of seats are to be placed. There need be no cramping of legs in this balcony.

The absence of pillars to support the balcony immediately attracts attention on entering the lower floor. The balcony ledge is of cantilever construction, thereby eliminating all pillars and posts to obstruct the view of the unfortunate person who happens to draw a seat behind one.

The seats in the lower floor are to be arranged in a semi-circular fashion and will be slightly higher on the sides than in the center. This arrangement will give everyone a perfect view of the entire floor and also increases the stage visibility.

Remember Actors

While every effort is being made to make the Palace Theater a place of real enjoyment for patrons, the comfort of those who make the playhouse possible, the stage folk, is not being forgotten. Individual dressing rooms occupy the space off the east side of the stage. Each room is to be equipped with its own dressing table and other accessories for the comfort of the troupers.

While there is yet much work to be done before Marion theater-goers will be privileged to attend their first show at the Palace, progress so far has been rapid. The plumbers, the electricians, and the heating and ventilation engineers are now waiting for the completion of the plastering to continue their work. The sidewalk in front of the building is to be laid the week or early next week.

Blood of Indian Chiefs Flows in Curtis' Veins

G. O. P. Vice Presidential Nominee Is Real 100 Per Cent American

SENATOR CHARLES CURTIS

FOR the first time in American history an Indian looms as likely to become Vice-President of the United States! This statement isn't as fantastic as it sounds for—

Senator Charles Curtis, of Kansas, chosen by the Republicans of the country to be the running mate of Herbert Hoover, is a descendant of noble Indian chieftains, himself born on Indian territory in what is now North Topeka. The holder of a powerful position in the Senate, where he was for some time G. O. P. leader, and a statesman second to none, which fact he proved when he coaxed the insurgents of the upperhouse into party alignment, the vice-presidential nominee's grandmother was a member of the Kansas Tribe and was one-half Indian.

His maternal great grandfather was "White Plume," chief of the Kansas Tribe, who was the son of "Pawhuska," the great chieftain of the Osages.

Thus Senator Curtis, cowboy, rancher, statesman, is justly a "100 per cent American," one of the few who has ever attained high office in the United States.

Powder Means Much to Me
By Edna Wallace Hopper

The average woman considers the actress hopelessly ahead of her in the art of enhancing natural beauty.

The reason for this advantage is that the actress makes a business of attracting and she must "know how." It is her bread and butter.

In the matter of powder, for instance, my forty odd years on the stage have made me almost unbelievably exacting. I never considered the cost of my powder, so long as it pleased me.

Edna Wallace Hopper

After years of searching I found in France the powder that now adds the last touch to my careful toilette. It satisfies me because it has the one quality I have found in no other powder. That is, it blends so smoothly with the texture of my skin that my face never looks "made up" when I am offstage.

Because it lends such a natural bloom I call it my Youth Powder. In the immense quantities now produced I am able to offer it to women at a low price.

If your skin requires a clinging powder I advise using my Youth Powder in the Heavy Type. It also can be had in the Light Type. Both have the same delicate elusive fragrance.

Get either type in Flesh, Brunette or White at any toilet counter—Adv.

VIRGINIA VALLI

GIRLS' CHIEF ALLURE ANNOUNCED

Movie directors say greatest charm is Smooth Skin

LOS ANGELES, CAL. — "The flowerlike beauty of smooth skin is a real power—it captivates," says Edwin Carewe, director for United Artists. Beautiful eyes, a perfect mouth, glorious hair—none of these mean as much as a radiant youthful skin, says Hollywood. Under the blaze of the Klieg lights nothing else will do. No make-up is clever enough to fake the velvety texture necessary for the close-ups. In Hollywood they call it "studio skin" and give it the tenderest care.

Nine out of ten screen stars are using Lux Toilet Soap to keep their skin in perfect condition. This new soap is prepared by the famous method France perfected and uses for her finest soaps. Virginia Valli says, "I delight in the marvelous velvety way it leaves my skin—only costly French soaps can compare with it."

All the big moving picture studios have placed it in their dressing rooms as the official soap. Lux Toilet Soap is manufactured by Lever Bros. Co., at Cambridge, Massachusetts.

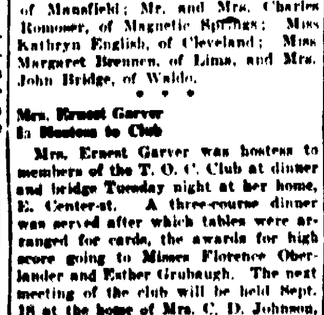
Cute in a Baby—Awful at Three—and it's Dangerous

by Ruth Bretton



Thumb sucking does look sweet in a baby but it is disgusting in the three-year-old and sometimes it hangs on until fifteen or sixteen! The habit may cause an ill formed mouth or induce adenoids; and it always interferes with digestion. Pinning the sleeve over the hand; attaching mittens, or putting on cardboard cuffs, which prevent bending the arms at the elbows, are some of the ways to stop the habit.

Another bad habit—irregularity in bowel action—is responsible for weak bowels and constipation in babies. Give the tiny bowels an opportunity to act at regular periods each day. If they don't act at first, a little Fletcher's Castoria will soon regulate them. Every mother should keep a bottle of it handy to use in case of colic, cholera, diarrhea, gas on stomach and bowels, constipation, loss of sleep, or when baby is cross and feverish. Its gentle influence over baby's system enables him to get full nourishment from his food, helps him gain, strengthens his bowels.

Castoria is purely vegetable and harmless—the recipe is on the wrapper. Physicians have prescribed it for over 30 years. With each package, you get a valuable book on Motherhood. Look for Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper so you'll get the genuine.—Adv.

Married Woman

Greatest Sporting Proposition

ONE reason why there is all this talk about companionate marriage, is because in the matrimonial game we are no longer good sports!

We want to eat our cake and have it too. We want all the honors and joys and privileges of marriage—but we don't want to pay the PRICE! We want to turn marriage from the greatest sporting proposition on earth, into a little game of "Button, button, who's got the button?"—or "Husband, husband, who's got the husband?"

We are willing to face the music from Lohengrin, but not to face the consequences. We are not willing to WORK at marriage! We want it made EASY, like Baby's alphabet.

But marriage IS a sporting proposition, and none but a good sport should enter it!

Marriage, itself, is not a gamble. It is a sublime opportunity, with all the rules and the rewards clearly defined. But every husband and every wife is a gamble. So is every business partner and every bridge partner, for that matter every human relationship in this life.

The idea of "companionate marriage" and of all these other "modern improvements" is to change the rules of the game, so as to give the "poor sports" a chance to renege without paying up, when they discover that they are bored or are losing, or when one of them sees somebody else more attractive.

• • •

Nice! But there is no other partnership and no other game in the world, in which we should think of giving or asking such a break.

Can you imagine two men entering a business partnership with the understanding that neither assume any responsibility for the success or failure of the firm; and that either partner can take his dollrags and go home to Mother, the first time the other partner wears a necktie he doesn't like or uses the wrong brand of perfume?

In athletics, in war, in business and in prizefights we demand good sportsmanship. Yet in no other relationship on earth is good sportsmanship so vital, as in marriage, where two people are playing together for the highest stakes in life—happiness!

It's a poor sport who expects to get everything out of marriage, without putting anything into it. It's a poor sport who leans back in the shafts and lets the other do all the pulling.

It's a poor sport who orders the goods and then dodges the instalment collector. It's a poor sport who signs up for the job and then refuses to work at it. It's a poor sport who wants to get out of the game, the moment the cards don't all fall his way. It's a poor sport who doesn't "play the game!"

• • •

Marriage is the merging of two lives and the welding of two personalities into something complete and beautiful; the making of a LIFE together. It is a larger order—and the price is a standard price. It is the greatest sporting proposition on earth! If you can't "play cricket," stay out of the game!

Miss C. Michalski Tells How Cuticura Healed Eczema

"My eczema started with a red rash breaking out on my hands. When I put them in water the skin would soften up, and as soon as I dried them they would get stiff and the skin would crack. They were so sore that I could not do much work. Sometimes the itching and burning were so severe that I could not sleep nights. I was ashamed to go out on account of them.

"I read an advertisement about your free offer of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a sample. I purchased more, and in a few months I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Clara Michalski, 4725 So. Marshfield St., Chicago, Ill., Sept. 24, 1927.

The Mystery at Styles

THE YEAR'S MOST BAFFLING SERIAL STORY

BY AGATHA CHRISTIE

CHAPTER 23

"N Poirot!" I remarked re- ...edly, "perhaps you will tell ... all this is about?"

"...noon smi, a good deal you can ... or yourself. Of course you ... that, now Mr Inglethorp is out ... whole position is greatly ... We are face to face with an ... new problem. We know now ... e is one person who did not ... poison. We have cleared ... manufactured clues. Now ... eal ones. I have ascertained ... one in the household, with the ... of Mrs. Cavendish, who was ... nnis with you, could have ... Mr. Inglethorp on Monday ... In the same way, we have ... statement that he put the coffee ... the hall.

... took much notice of that at ...st—but now it has a very ... significance. We must find ... take that coffee to M s. In- ... eventually, or who passed ... through the hall whilst it was standing there.

"From your account, there are only two people whom we can positively say did not go near the coffee—Mrs Cavendish, and Mademoiselle Cynthia."

"Yes, that is so." I felt an inexpressible lightening of the heart. Mary Cavendish could certainly not rest under suspicion.

"In clearing Alfred Inglethorp," continued Poirot, "I have been obliged to show my hand sooner than I intended. As long as I might be thought to be pursuing him, the criminal would be off his guard. Now, he will be doubly careful. Yes—doubly careful." He turned to me abruptly. "Tell me, Hastings, you yourself—have you no suspicion of anybody?"

I hesitated. To tell the truth, an idea, wild and extravagant in itself, had once or twice that morning flashed through my brain. I had rejected it as absurd, nevertheless it persisted.

"You couldn't call it a suspicion," I murmured. "It's so utterly foolish."

"Come now," urged Poirot encouragingly, "Do not fear. Speak your mind. You should always pay attention to your instincts."

"Well then," blurted out, "it's absurd—but I suspect Miss Howard of not telling all she knows!"

"Miss Howard?"

"Yes—you'll laugh at me—"

"Not at all. Why should I?"

"I can't help feeling," I continued blunderingly; "that we've rather left her out of the possible suspects, simply on the strength of her having been away from the place. But, after all, she was only 15 miles away. A car would do it in half an hour. Can we say positively that she was away from Styles on the night of the murder?"

"Yes, my friend," said Poirot unexpectedly, "we can. One of my first actions was to ring up the hospital where she was working."

"Well?"

"Well, I learned that Miss Howard had been on afternoon duty on Tuesday, and that—a convoy coming in unexpectedly—she had kindly offered to remain on night duty, which offer was gratefully accepted. That disposes of that."

"Oh!" I said, rather nonplussed. "Really," I continued, "it's her extraordinary vehemence against Inglethorp that started me off suspecting her. I can't help feeling she'd do anything against him. And I had an idea she might know something about the destroying of the will. She might have burned the new one, mistaking it for the earlier one in his favor. She is so terribly bitter against him."

"You consider her vehemence unnatural?"

"I—es. She is so very violent. I wonder really whether she is quite sane on that point."

Poirot shook his head energetically. "No, no, you are on a wrong track! about her evidence at the inquest that there. There is nothing weak-minded or degenerate about Miss Howard. She is an excellent specimen of well balanced English beef and brown. She is sanity itself."

"Yet her hatred of Inglethorp seems almost a mania. My idea was—a very ridiculous one, no doubt—that she had intended to poison him—and that, in some way, Mrs. Inglethorp got hold of it by mistake. But I don't at all see how it could have been done. The whole thing is absurd and ridiculous to the last degree."

"Still you are right in one thing. It is always wise to suspect everybody until you can prove logically, and to your own satisfaction that they are innocent. Now, what reasons are there against Miss Howard's having deliberately poisoned Mrs. Inglethorp?"

"Why she was devoted to her!" I exclaimed.

"Tchah! Tchah!" cried Poirot irritably. "You argue like a child. If Miss Howard were capable of poisoning the old lady, she would be quite equally capable of simulating devotion. No, we must look elsewhere. You are perfectly correct in our assumption that her vehemence against Alfred Inglethorp is too violent to be natural; but you are quite wrong in the deduction you draw from it. I have drawn my own deductions, which I believe to be correct, but I will not speak of them at present." He paused a minute, then went on. "Now, to my own way of thinking, there is one insuperable objection to Miss Howard's being the murderess."

"And that is?"

"That in no possible way could Mrs Inglethorp's death benefit Miss Howard. Now there is no murder without a motive."

I reflected.

"Could not Mrs. Inglethorp have made a will in her favour?"

Poirot shook his head.

"But you yourself suggested that possibility to Mr. Wells."

Poirot smiled.

"That was for a reason I did not want to mention the name of the person who was actually in my mind. Miss Howard occupied very much the same position so I used her name instead."

"Still, Mrs. Inglethorp might have done so. Why, that will, made on the afternoon of her death may—"

But Poirot's shake of the head was so energetic that I stopped.

"No, my friend. I have certain little ideas of my own about that will. But I can tell you this much—it was not in Miss Howard's favor."

I accepted his assurance, though I did not really see how he could be so positive about the matter.

"Well," I said, with a sigh, "we will acquit Miss Howard, then. It is partly your fault that I ever came to suspect her. It was what you said about her evidence at the inquest that set me off."

Poirot looked puzzled.

"What did I say about her evidence at the inquest?"

"Don't you remember? When I cited her and John Cavendish as being above suspicion?"

"Oh—ah—yes." He seemed a little confused, but recovered himself. "By the way, Hastings, there is something I want you to do for me."

"Certainly. What is it?"

"Next time you happen to be alone with Lawrence Cavendish, I want you to say this to him. I have a message for you, from Poirot. He says, 'Find the extra coffee-cup, and you can rest in peace!'" Nothing more. Nothing less."

"'Find the extra coffee-cup, and you can rest in peace.' Is that right?" I asked, much mystified.

"Excellent."

"But what does it mean?"

"Ah, that I will leave you to find out. You have access to the facts. Just say that to him, and see what he says."

"Very well—but it's all extremely mysterious."

We were running into Tadminster now, and Poirot directed the car to the "Analytical Chemist."

Poirot hopped down briskly, and went inside. In a few minutes he was back again.

"There," he said. "That is all my business."

"What were you doing there?" I asked, in lively curiosity.

"I left something to be analysed."

"Yes, but what?"

"The sample of cocoa I took from the saucepan in the bedroom."

"But that has already been tested!" I cried, stupefied. "Dr. Bauerstein had it tested, and you yourself laughed at the possibility of there being strychnine in it."

"I know Dr. Bauerstein had it tested," replied Poirot quietly.

"Well, then?"

"Well, I have a fancy for having it analysed again, that is all."

This proceeding of Poirot's in respect to the cocoa puzzled me intensely. I could see neither rhyme nor reason in it. However, my confidence in him which at one time had rather waned, was fully restored since his belief in Alfred Inglethorp's innocence had been so triumphantly vindicated.

Who would sigh for the good old days unless he could be at the very age again.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

TODAY was Thursday and the week is almost gone again, and Younies will be able next week to go berrying again if she wants to.

I let Jubilee down by the rope on his teeth and we went out to milk the cows and found the bunch waiting and when I had strained the milk and fed my face the bunch wanted to play ball, so me and Peanuts and J hnny Griswold which is the only ones that has got cows chose up with a bat to see which one should take all the cows whilst the others stayed at the vacant lot, and I lost. They didn't know it but I caught the bat so that I would lose.

When I had got the cows in the pasture and the hars up me and Jubilee went around to Younises and she was at home and her sore foot is almost well, and I told her she could go berrying next week, and she said she would as soon go berrying but she don't want to go snaking, and then her mother stuck her head in a from the kitchen door and asted what we were talking about, and Younies said I said she would soon be well so she could go berrying again, and her mother said that if she ever caught her berrying again she would fan her so hard she wouldn't set down for a week, and that where she left off her father would take up, and Younies looked at me and blushed and I got red and said I guessed I would go and play ball.

I met Feeble coming in when me and Jubilee were going out, and she looked at me crosseyed and said: "Hello darling," and I said: "Hello shrimp." And she said to let's go to my house and see Annabelle Lee, so we went and it was almost noon and she stayed, and we played on the floor with Annabelle Lee, and my ant was going past so and Feeble's foot slid out and my ant stumbled and hit to snap her mouth shut right quick to keep from losing her false teeth, and then my ant got a book and came out to read it where she could watch us and she was setting down when Feeble got her too inside of her chair leg and slid the chair out of the way and my ant set down hard. I never did see anyone look as surprised as Feeble did unless it was my ant. And then, just when Feeble was asking my ant how it happened, Annabelle Lee screwed her with the potato masher that she had been playing with, and then Feeble hollered and pretended like crys, and my ant picked up Annabelle Lee and spank her and called her a cute thing.

Feeble went to the window and said, to play with her at her house, which is against the rules of the game, and I said no, and she said she would tell her mother on me and I said I didn't care, and she said she would tell her mother I said a bad word, and I said I didn't care, and she said she would tell her mother I said a bad word and I said I didn't care, and she said she would tell her mother I said a bad word and I said I didn't care, and she said she would tell her mother I said a bad word
